A CHILD GOES FORTH

*There was a child went forth every day,
And the first object he look'd upon, that object he became,
And that object became part of him for the day or a certain part of the day,
Or for many years or stretching cycles of years.*

For all the years of our lives objects influence us each day. These objects do, as the poet so rhythmically expresses, become a part of us. Some objects will leave their imprint for all the rest of our lives, while others will remain part of us for only a fleeting moment.

Life, the art of drawing without an eraser, holds moments when we wish that we could erase events; at other moments we wish time would stop its continual progress so we could look closely at our world.

In this manner one year at Northside passed. Our lives intermingled; we learned some, grew some. Years ahead will reveal just how much influence passing objects had on us.

Eighth grader, Sharon Hostetter, has difficulty deciding which number combination will open her locker.

Cooler Breezes Activate Atmosphere

Though poets and biologists describe spring as the all-around time of beginning, fall is a time of beginning for Northsiders. First and foremost is the opening of school. Students face the "same old grind" and slowly grow accustomed to the basic routines of tests, homework, and projects. Clubs organize for the year and elect officers to lead in club activities. Plans materialize for forthcoming programs and projects.

Cross country meets under open skies provide opportunities of exercise for interested boys. Viking football fans enjoy competition and keen excitement on chilly nights.

When autumn's falling leaves are covered with December snow, students note the end of this beginning as the school year is well under way.

Keyettes, Debbie Wilkerson and Alice Davis, work against the cold to sell programs at a football game.

At the close of another hard school day, weary students welcome the pilgrimage to homeward bound buses.

Viking Mike Henderson battles his opponent for the ball as Bernard Harris comes to the rescue.

Coach Isabell braves winters snow and ice so as not to disappoint his boys Phys. Ed. classes today.

Icicles are A Part of Winter's Wonder

Dark, rainy days preceded Christmas and students met the dead of winter with hopes that snow was not too far away. Far spread were the November days on which we could stand at a bus stop and see our own breath.

Basketball games and wrestling matches brought the dual excitement, and the team members sometime rose far above their expectations, sometimes failed to meet their own predictions.

"Yultide Dreams" and holiday & parties characterizes the Christmas vacation for many.

Exams in late January worried some; others were not bothered any more by exams than they were by weekly English assignments.

Scores of Seniors shouted for joy as college acceptances reach their hands. Others heaved a sigh of relief that only first semester grades count toward their acceptances.

"Should it be here cut here?" Mr. Carter, Cindy Henley, and Pat Ball decorate for the Miss North Star Dance.

Short Eight Grader, Donna Gryder, utilizes the lower shelf of her locker while in search of a lost Geography Book she needs for her exams.

Mike Morris holds the flag steady while Bill Hedrick sinks a putt into the cup.

Everyone stands with bowed heads as the minister prays at the 1967 Graduation Service.

All the Students Sustain Spring Fever

The end of the beginning for eight graders and the beginning of the end for seniors came when spring arrived.

Northside's youngest class saw their first year draw to a close and, along with other underclassmen, planned schedules of classes for '68-'69.

Boys participated in track and field events, tennis, and golf. Girls turned to softball and track.

Many clubs ended their year with spring banquets to present awards. Outstanding students received recognition at the annual Awards Assembly which occupied two hours of class time.

Juniors arranged last-minute details and seniors enjoyed their final high school prom.

Graduation 1968 ended spring activities for seniors. Northside's latest graduates would soon be on the bottom rungs of ladders in the exciting world outside N.H.S.

Four June days held exams for eight graders and seniors alike. Classroom days ended, schools closed, and a sultry summer faced happy students.

*The nurring tumbling waves, quick-broken crests, slapping,
The strata of color'd clouds, the long bar of maroon-tint away solitary by itself, the spread of purity it lies motionless in,
The horizon's edge, the flying sea-crow, the fragrance of salt marsh and shore mud.*

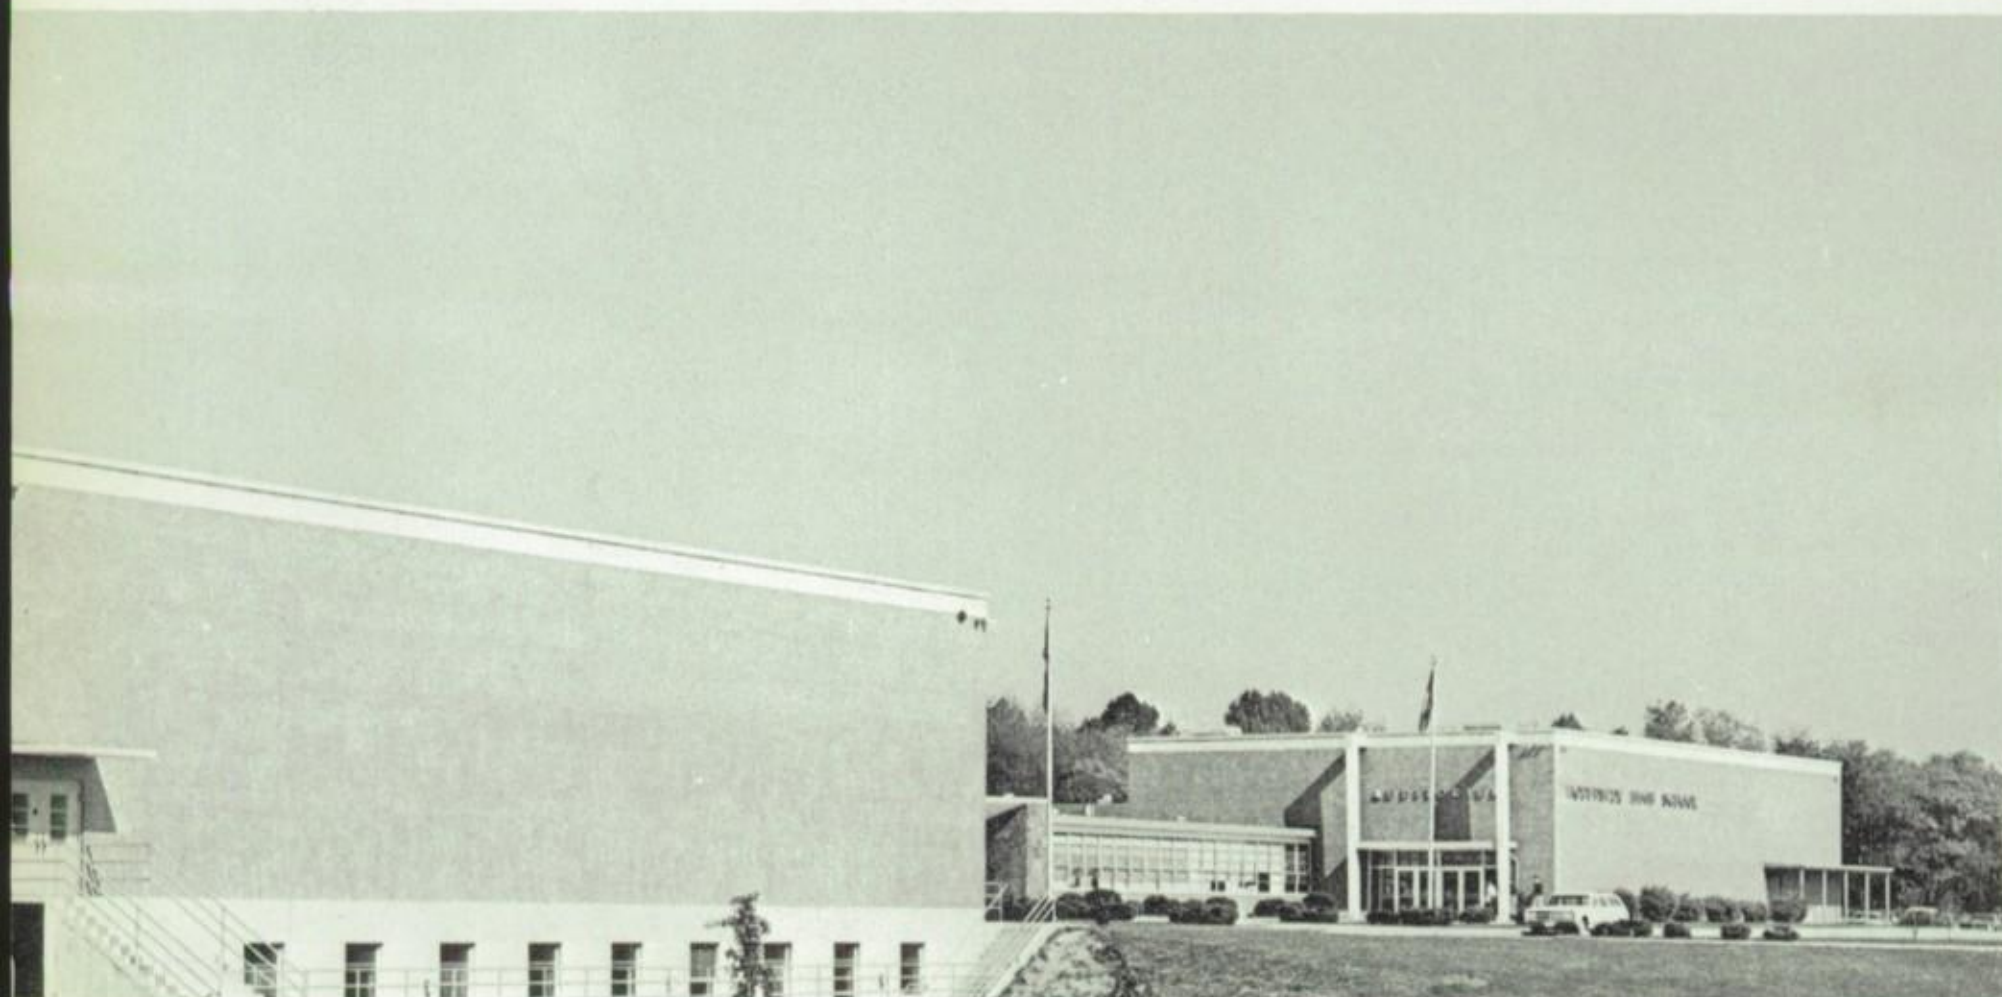

Reluctantly parting with summer, surfboards, beaches, and fairs, Vikings throng to the gym to meet new friends and old acquaintances from the last year, and to recognize the first day of school. Before the fun and experiences of summer can be stored in our memories for further reference, the old familiar sign of autumn appears — days start to shrink very slowly, and become cooler.

The hazy skies and lazy days of Indian summer set a smoky, pleasant stage which waits expectantly for Autumn to appear. Then it comes in scarlet, gold and rust colored splendor. Blazing bonfires and happy hayrides, football games and after-game excursions to Lendy's quickly pill the ache of summer past.

Our school secretaries, Judy Philpott and Judy St. Clair busily but happily count money for book rental.

Northside High, surrounded by mountains and sky plays an important part in the education of many students.

Administration Plans Education, Activities

Students saw a different face this year if they had occasion to enter the principal's office. Most students also caught glimpses of Mr. David Urquhart at assemblies, in the cafeteria, or when moving to and from class. Administrative policies, student discipline, and other vital regulations originated in Mr. Urquhart's office.

Mr. Hal Johnston and Mr. Eugene Orr, our two assistant principals, offered disciplinary measures in many instances and gave guidance to many students. This guidance came from their knowledge of official policies, their familiarity with where things might be found around the school, and their willingness to be of help to students. SCA officers, club presidents, and others at Northside continually found need of the assistance of these two men.

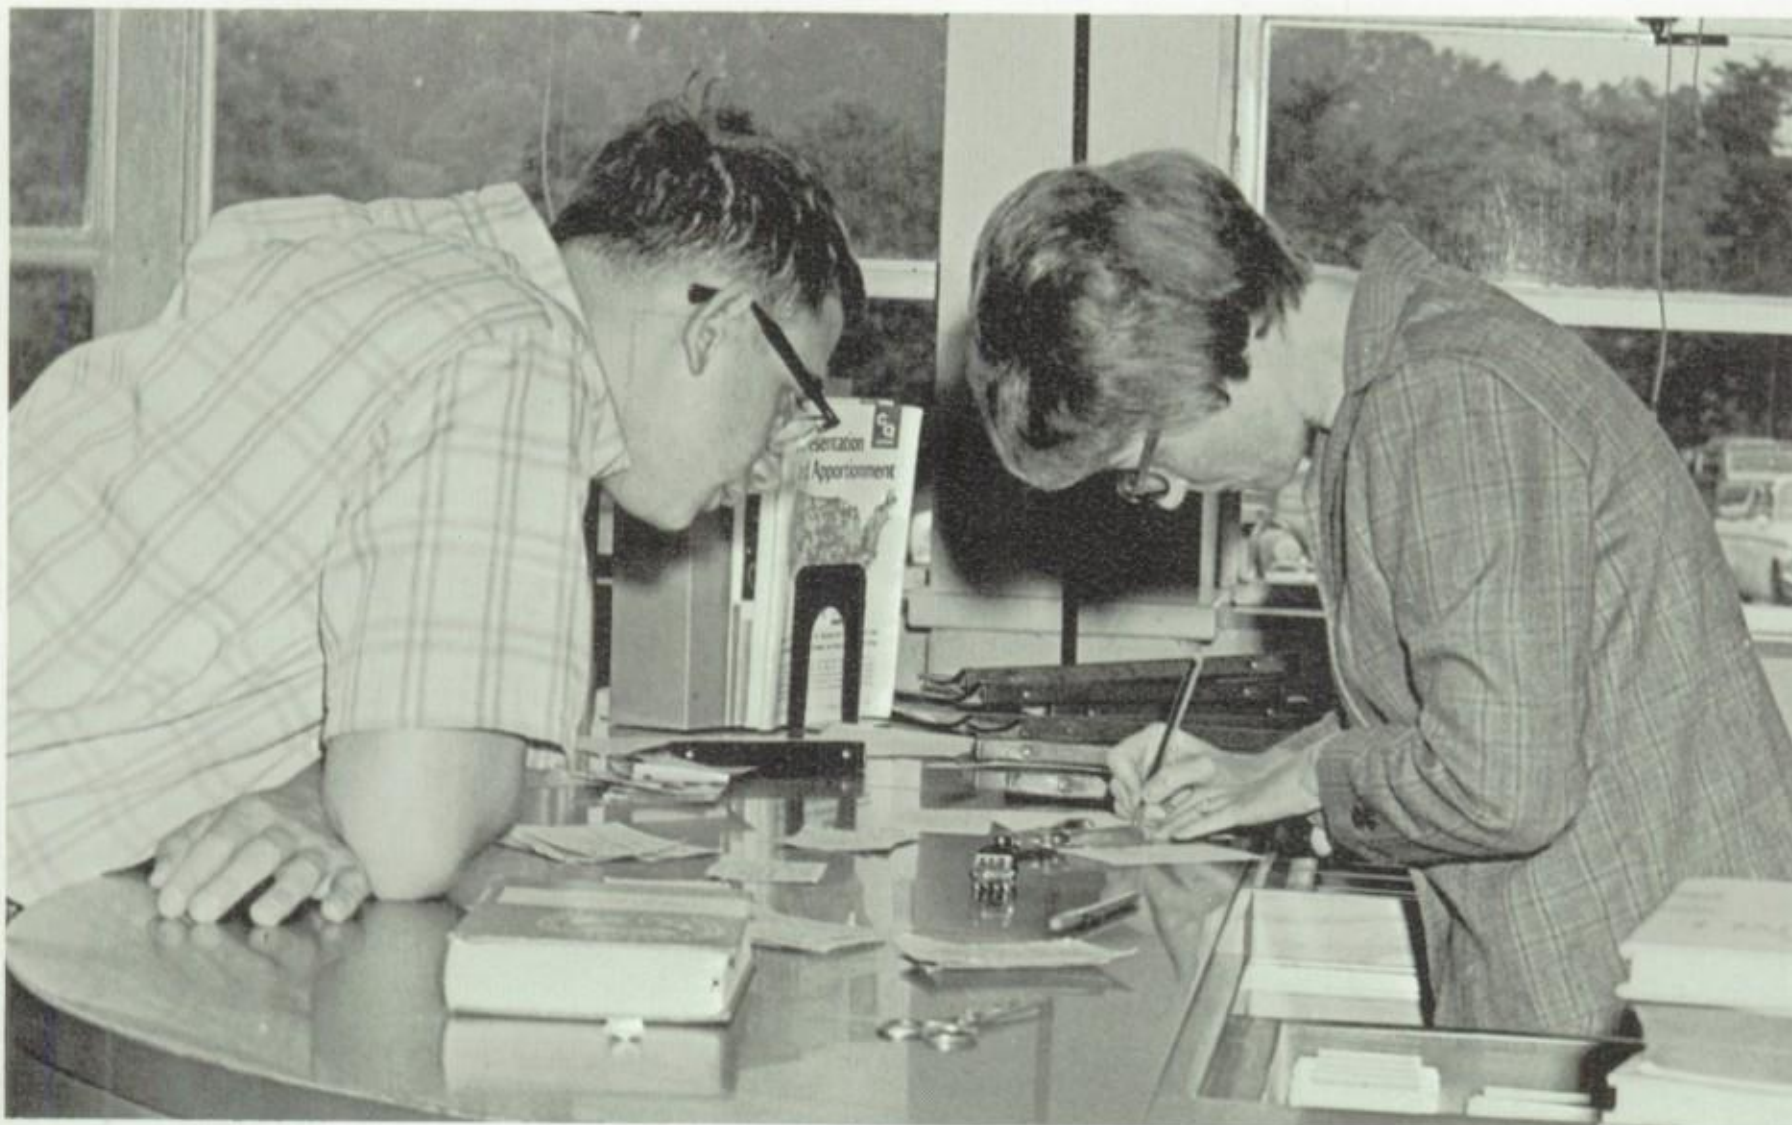

Miss Judy St. Clair and Miss Judy Philpott kept things running smoothly in the office with their efficiency, friendly smiles, and helpful attitude.

Mr. Johnson and Mr. Orr formulate ideas, policies.

Mr. David Urquhart, our principal, must study and regulate student activities.

Miss McDavid calculates the overdue book charge for Alan Stolove two week overdue library books.

Guidance and Library Help All Students

The Guidance Department, a vital part of Northside High School's organization, is busy all year. Fall finds the Guidance Department hastily correcting schedules and establishing the important routines that govern life about the school. Every morning finds Mr. Shelton and Mrs. Henderson excusing absences and keeping track of the student body. Miss Peters and Mr. Gallion, our two part-time guidance counselors, offer their services to confused students during one or two periods each day.

By giving achievement tests, administering college board PSAT and SAT, and interpreting scores, the members of this department estimate the aptitudes of numerous Vikings.

Our library gained accreditation last year after attaining the required five books per student. Several students and teachers assist librarian Miss Edna McDavid throughout the day in keeping up with these volumes.

Mr. Gallion has a conference with a student about grades.

Math Problems Rankle Most All Students

Eighth graders overhear many foreign-sounding words when listening to the after-test discussions of upperclassmen. Often they wonder how any human can keep all those terms straight. Sines, cosines, tangents, geometric progressions, dot product of two vectors — all these terms hold a fearful note for the inexperienced.

Algebra, geometry, and trigonometry students quickly gain familiarity with terms and learn to use them with little thought about their difficulty. A teacher's explanation often brings an understanding of how seemingly complicated terms can simplify mathematical concepts.

Slide rules, compasses, protractors, and other vital instruments equip the student and aid his mind and pencil. Equipped also with his language of mathematics, he progresses with classmates toward complete understanding of the subject matter.

Miss Fudge wears a look of surprise as she receives the Christmas present given by her Geometry class.

Miss Minnich's Trigonometry class diligently concentrates on making geometric figures on the last day of school before Christmas.

Math Presents a Trial to Most Students

Northside's Science Department offers courses for students in all grades. Eighth graders struggle with earth science and biology. Freshmen plod through one semester of chemistry and one of physics. Sophomores attempt standardized tests and dissections in biology. Many upperclassmen daily face the perils of taking junior chemistry or senior physics.

Laboratory experiments, mimeographed tests, and classroom discussions, of scientific apparatus and methods occupy an hour of each school day for hundreds of science students. All must formulate and carry out an experiment to be graded as a science project. Those with successful projects are urged to enter the Roanoke County Science Fair in the spring.

Miss Fitzner lectures endlessly on the complicated principles of math to her eager eighth-grade students.

Mr. Stewart watches and assists Wanda Glass and Ann Jones with weight problems in ninth grade Physics. There may be a slight handicap as Becky Heck manages to help Susie Sarver with a problem of weights and balances.

World Affairs are Top— Most in Our Minds

In accordance with county requirements all students must complete courses in American history, U. S. and Virginia government, and world geography or world history. Therefore, most students find themselves enrolled in social studies classes every year.

Maps, globes, and textbooks carry eighth graders to far-off lands as they meet people of different habitats in their study of world geography. World history students learn about past events, battles, and famous personages. Sophomores familiarize themselves with our nation's past in American history. Government classes introduce juniors and seniors to fundamentals of our nation's government.

Juniors and seniors may elect any one, two, or three, or all four of the semester social studies electives. These electives are in psychology, sociology, economics, and comparative government.

All Suffer Through English Patiently

New approaches to English grammar introduced many unfamiliar terms to students in grades eight through twelve. Teachers abandoned traditional grammar for the basic sentence patterns emphasized by structural linguists. Students learned to recognize basic sentence patterns and to see clauses and phrases as components of these patterns.

Twenty-five seniors studied transformational grammar in Northside's first Advanced Grammar and Composition class. They also made detailed studies of methods for developing paragraphs, themes, essays, and short stories.

Delving into the depths of human nature, students met and analyzed illustrious characters from a variety of novels. Knowledge of figures of speech, meter, rhyme, and style added meaning to class studies of poems. Plays and short stories introduced other modes of literary expression.

Since Roanoke County requires that all students complete courses in American history, U. S. and Virginia government, and world geography or world history before they may graduate, most students find themselves enrolled in Social Studies classes every year. These classes include numerous off-the-subject current events, discussions, and teachers encourage the use of maps, news magazines, and newspapers.

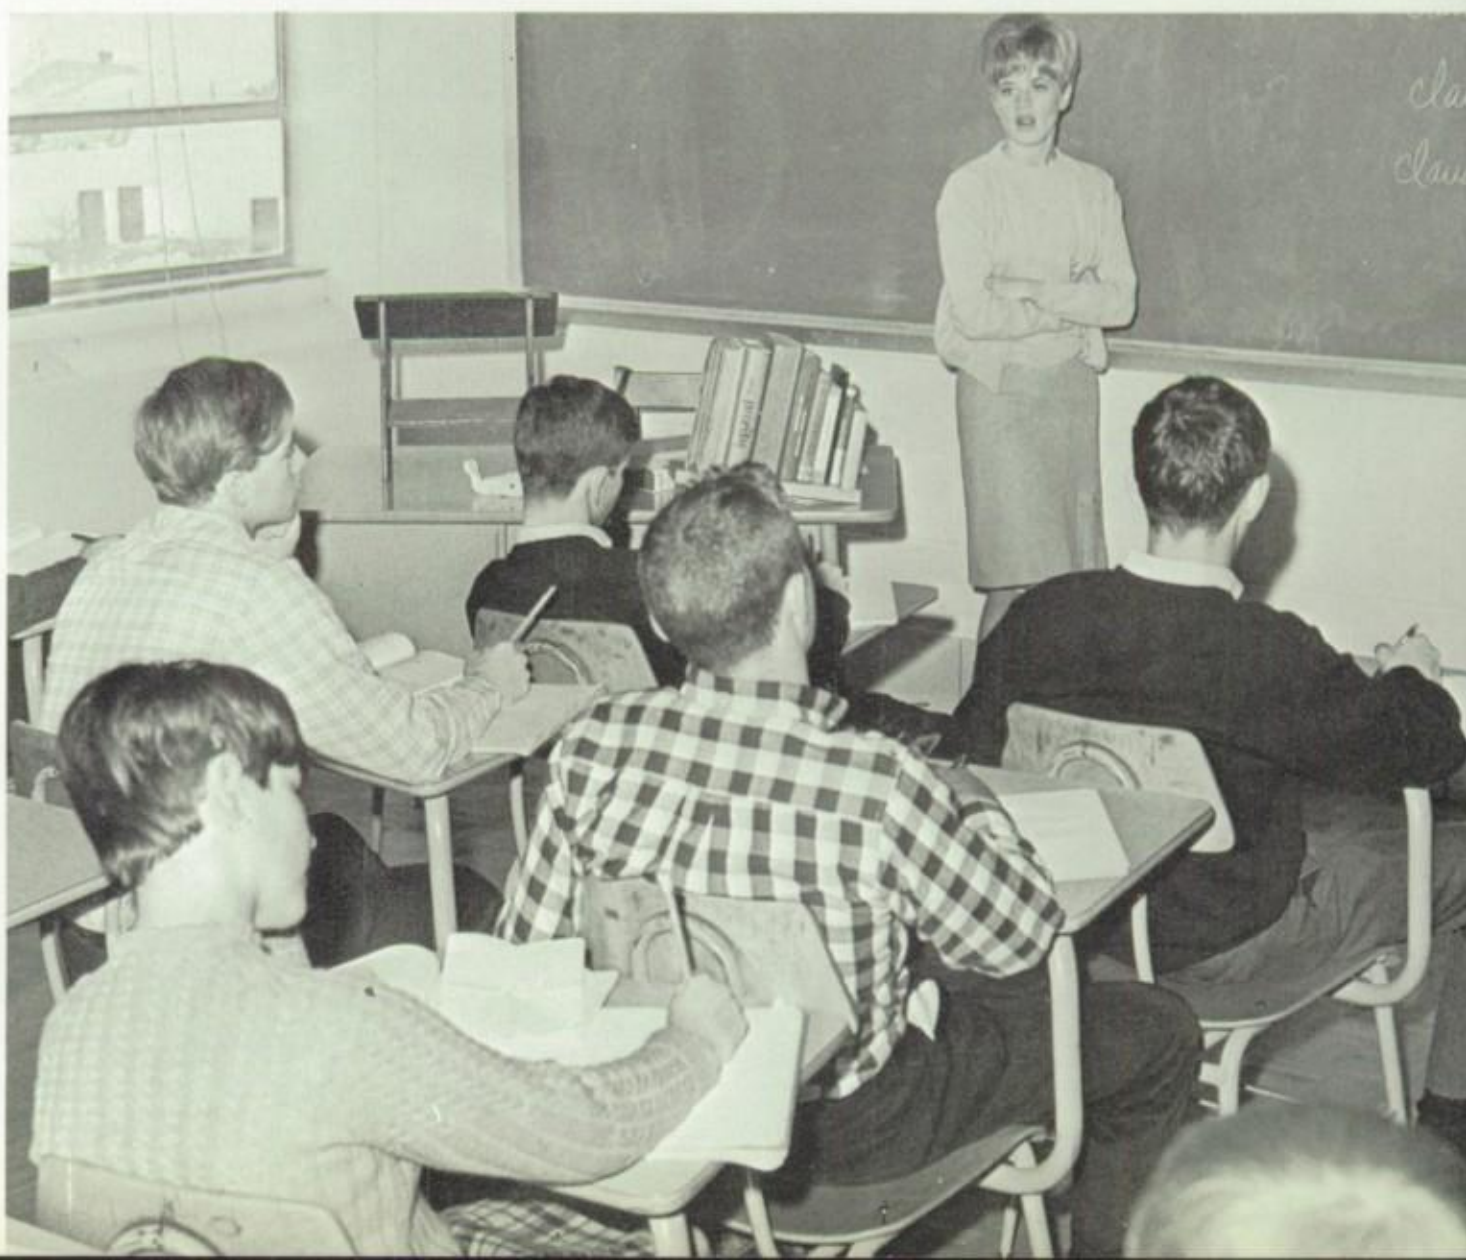

Headed by Miss Norma Jean Peters, this department centers around the student's awareness of his world. Besides the required courses, the department offered four semester electives. Juniors and seniors may elect any one, two, or three, or all four of these. These courses are in psychology, sociology, economics, and comparative government.

English students listen as Richard Huffman finishes his book report.

Horizons are Broadened Through Study

Students busily take notes as Mrs. Lonker lectures on the early period of English.

"And the Black Plague spread throughout Western Europe," comments Mr. Brill as his students listen and follow their notes.

Miss Gregory energetically pushes around her podium as she makes government come alive.

Mr. Anderson points out far away lands to his Geography students.

Mrs. Hartigan thinks, "Oh no!", and looks away discouraged.

Miss Flora diligently teaches her students Spanish with laughter and smiles throughout the class period.

Mike Morris translates for Miss Flora's Spanish class.

Miss Martin carefully explains the fundamentals of conjugating a verb in Latin I class.

Languages Broaden Foreign Concepts

N.H.S. language students plodded through French, Spanish, or Latin classes with the aid of brand new textbooks. Abandoning classical methods of vocabulary drills and verb conjugation, teachers stressed progress toward thinking French or correctly pronouncing everyday Spanish words. Tape recorders and records, two of the language teacher's most effective tools, familiarized students with the "sound" of the language. Thus vocabularies grew for first-year students much in the same manner that a child learns to speak his native language. Whether by modern techniques or by age-old methods of memorization, study of foreign languages and their related civilizations opened up a new world of far-off lands for numerous Vikings. Maps of Roman lands, recorded lyrics of French folk songs, and unintelligible discussions of Spanish patriots testified to this fact.

Tooth Brushes and Paint Enliven Arts

Lights, action, ... and the play begins. Our dramatics teacher Mrs. Coffindaffer gives her classes the ever-necessary training and experience needed to produce plays. The dramatics department presents short plays for Christmas and Easter assemblies. Members of this department also present one-act plays for paid assemblies and district and state competition between high schools. Mrs. "C" also directs the senior class play in the fall and the junior class play in the spring. Spring 1967 saw the production of South Pacific. Fun and frolic for juniors and seniors in the cast and those working back stage resulted in a successful money-making effort for the junior class.

Mrs. Harris leads art students in studies of various art forms, the history of art, and different art materials. These varied approaches to art provide a basis for the creative expression of students with all types of personalities. The art classes have a display on A-hall at all times.

Janie Hoer and Jo Alice Ruble exhibit a spirit of creativity while making facial masks for Art I class.

Machines Hum and Hack Saws Buzz

The odors that emitted from the Home Economics room contrasted the unpleasant ones that students smelled coming from the chemistry lab. Cakes, pies, and cookies sent only pleasant odors into the halls.

Besides baking, home economics students sewed, studied interior decorating, and discussed child care. During a study of house plans girls drew up samples of their own and outlined technical details of these.

Industrial arts students daily entered their own world in the room on B-hall from which emerged the sounds of machines, machines, machines. Saws, drills, and other instruments took on a special significance when these boys learned their most intricate parts. Students studied the various grains of wood and learned how to finish each type.

These two departments gave students the opportunity to practice what they learned and to develop individual skills.

Mr. Price explains and teaches Billy Bowman how to experiment with planes and sandpaper in Industrial Arts.

Business Students Are Taught Varied Skills

Before venturing into our fast-moving complex society, which places constantly increasing emphasis on business and finance, or opportunities for education at business schools, commercial students learn the basics through high school business courses. North-side's business department offers courses in typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, and office practice. Typing and shorthand, progressive courses which place emphasis on the student's improvement, help him progress from basics to knowledge of modern business techniques. Bookkeeping and office practice develop skills for future use.

Academic students may enroll in a semester personal typing course. As its name implies, this course introduces methods for typing letters, term papers, and themes.

Business teacher Mrs. Penturff instructs Sharon Cuddy on her general business homework.

The steady click-click of typewriters finally becomes a familiar sound to first-year typing students.

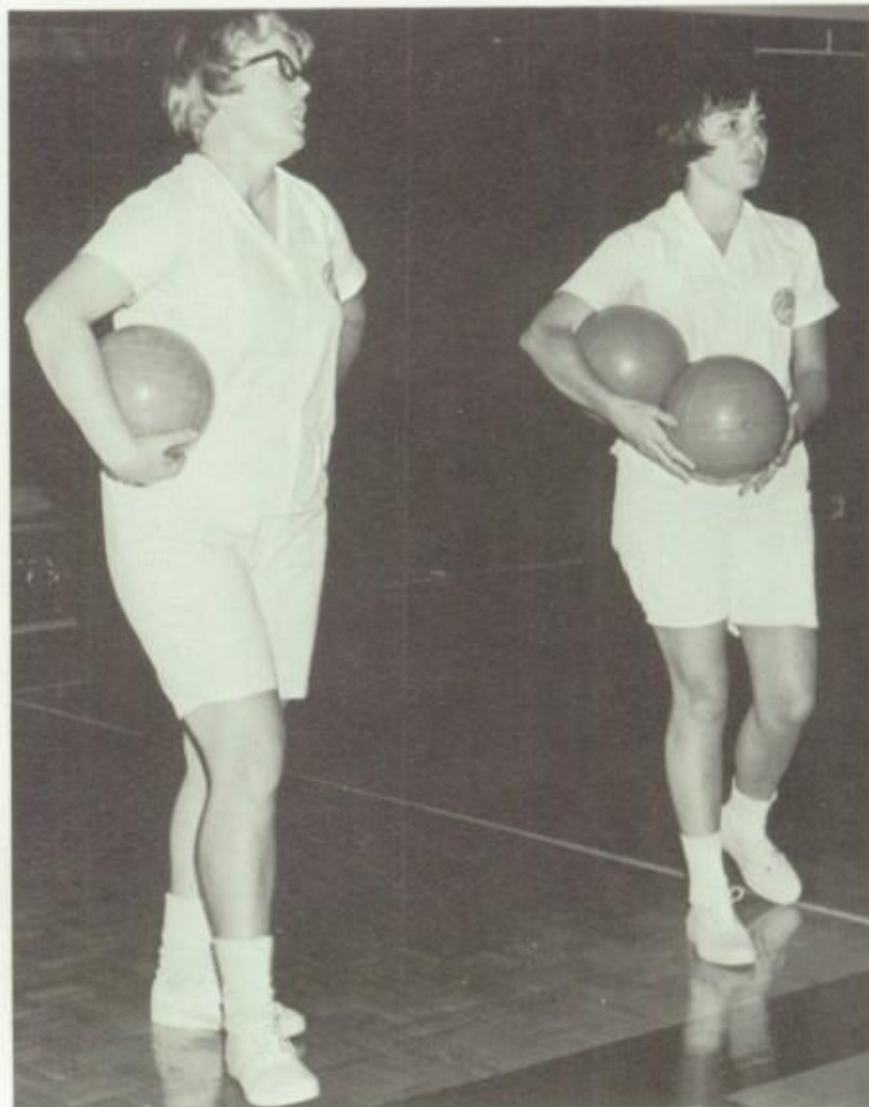

Concentration, quick-moving fingers, and near-perfect rhythm bring students excellent grades on timings.

Exercises are a Headache to All

The Physical Education Department of Northside consists of Mrs. Clemons, Mrs. Kavitz, Mr. Dyer, and Mr. Isbell. Alternating a gym course with a health course in the eighth and tenth grades and classroom Driver Training in the ninth grade, the physical education curriculum has been expanded and improved. Among the sports offered are basketball, softball, speedball, volleyball, tumbling, and soccer. In addition, the girls study dancing for a part of the year and boys learn gymnastical feats and weight-lifting.

In the classroom, the fundamentals of health are broadened and elaborated on by closer study of the human anatomy, piece by piece. The half-year of driver training offered in the freshman year is the course which is recommended by most of the companies dealing with automobile insurance.

Student teachers Miss Keiger and Miss Brown show gym classes the correct way to hit a volleyball.

R.C.E.C. Has Good Business Experience

Roanoke County Educational Center offers interested juniors and seniors the opportunity to apply practical knowledge acquired in the classroom. Seventy of the three hundred fifty students at R. C. E. C. are from Northside.

After passing qualifying tests, students from Northside and the other four county high schools study in this central location off Veterans Facility Road. The wide variety of courses offered includes cosmetology, auto mechanics, practical nursing, data processing, and vocational office training.

Valuable experience comes from all these vocational courses. R. C. E. C. training will enable graduates to obtain better-paying positions after high school.

Coaches Inspire With Little Success

Fans yelled, "Go Vikings," and football season began with a close game against Hillsville. Coaches Ken Shelton, Ralph Isbell, Willie Waker, Donnie Dyer, and the varsity squad ended the season with a 2-7-1 record.

Greatest excitement in the stands came with the Homecoming victory of 19-0 over finished the 1967 season with only two minutes of the final game of the season against William Byrd, Viking fans saw the score shift from 7-6, our favor, to 7-13, and we lost.

The Varsity coaches selected Wayne Gaabo and Stanford Johnson co-captains. Team ability brought him the title Most Valuable Lineman. Agile Greg Smallwood took honors and Stanford Johnson Most Valuable Line-man.

Vikings Triumph in Homecoming Game

Green crepe paper streamers stretched across halls, signs with victory slogans posted on every door, and shouts of "cremate the Cavaliers" characterized Pep Week 1967. Pep Club president Susan Aheron led the way in decorating, building spirit, and raising hopes for victory. Students cheered as Terry Henson was named "Mr. Football" at the Friday afternoon pep assembly.

The Homecoming Parade moved slowly and noisily from Crossroads Mall to the Viking Stadium.

The sophomore class float won the five dollar first prize.

The 19 to 0 score lighted on the scoreboard climaxed a spirited week. The Cavaliers of Fieldale-Collinsville were "cremated" by our hardy Viking team. Alumni crowded into the stands, sharing the victorious moment with senior and eighth grader alike.

An extra highlight came at half time when Mr. David Urquhart, our principal, crowned senior Brenda Fahnestock Homecoming Queen.

The cheerleaders give a touch of good luck to David Early.

S.C.A. Ties Student Body Together

Walter Reinhardt, president of the Student Cooperative Association, appointed the members of a permanent SCA committee, the Foreign Exchange Board. This committee will handle relations with all foreign exchange students in the future and will appropriate money for the personal needs of the student each year.

The Inter-Club Council, perhaps the most powerful student government organization within the SCA, decided when and where extracurricular activities of 1967-68 would take place. Membership included representatives of each active club.

The Pep Club produced a genial spirit at sports events. This club sponsored a banner contest to promote school spirit. It was also responsible for the introduction of the old Irish custom of a spirit stick. The class with the highest percentage attendance at athletic events received the spirit stick for the following week.

PEP CLUB: First Row—Linda Kidd, Debbie Cutright, Susan Bailey, Norma Harris, Gladyds Sheets, Shelia Hall, Susan Sarver, Carol Lucas, Deena Wertz, Donna Gryder, Brenda Creasy. An underclassman can't resist the urge to take a drink of good ole Viking water during Homecoming.

Students drop pennies in the can of the candidate of their choice hoping he will win.

The 1967-68 S.C.A. officers are Terry Henson, Vice-President; Carolyn Cole, Chaplin; Sue Aheron, Secretary; Walter Rhienhardt, President; and Brad Smallwood, Treasure.

Northside Welcomes Norma Palispis

Norma Palispis landed at Woodrum Airport on a sultry August morning. Nervously she met her new family, the Cloyd McConnells. Second of the nine children in her family, Norma, our foreign exchange student for 1967-68, comes to us from Baquio City, Philippines.

Norma has undertaken extracurricular activities which include Pep Club, Grapettes, and GAA. She contributes her musical talent in the school choir. She was honorary attendant on the 1967 Homecoming Court and an International News Reporter in the senior play "Solid Gold Cadillac."

Norma likes Roanoke, especially Lakeside, Mill Mountain, and Lendy's. She finds American food very good but quite fattening and notes that we eat more meat and sweets than her countrymen. She does not like chocolate cokes and proclaimed "ugh" at her first taste of one.

Norma calls Roanoke her "home away from home" and we at Northside hope that she will always feel this way.

Norma has joined clubs and has extra activities including singing in the Northside High School Choir.

Escorted by Walter Reinhardt, Norma Palispis is a representative of the Senior Class for Homecoming Court.

CROSS COUNTRY TEAM: First Row — Danny Altice, Gerald Walton, Mike Poff, Eddie Bryant, Coach Stewart, Walter Vioho, Eddie Hodges. Standing — Norman Holden, Frank Campbell, Rick Beason, Walt Reinhardt, Tom Rieley, Steve Minnich.

Long Distance Runs Promote Tiredness

Directed by coach R. L. Stewart, a newcomer to Northside, our Cross Country team was victorious in three of its six dual meets. The team also ran in several triple meets. Cool, brisk air and falling leaves characterized the season for cross country meets. Team members showed their physical stamina by continually meeting cool wind and fleetful foe with successful results.

"Miss North Star Finalist" meant sparkling feelings exploding within Janie Hoer, Pat Cassada, Carma Hale, Lyn Gordh, Teresa Lynch, Pat Ball, Sherry Ford, Chippy Williams, Brenda Glass, and Donna Perdue.

A quiet and dreamy mood slowly blossomed forth into a gay and happy occasion.

Miss North Star—

Donna Perdue

"Cherry Pink and Apple Blossom White" set the mood at the annual "Miss North Star" dance as ten young ladies were presented to the student body as candidates for the title "Miss North Star 1968." Janie Hoer, Pat Ball, Chippy Williams, Brenda Glass, Pat Cassada, Carma Hale, Lyn Gordh, Teresa Lynch, Sherry Ford, and Donna Perdue composed a candidate list sent to Mr. Sam R. Good, Director of Admissions at Roanoke College, who selected the winner. Mr. Good made his decision saying that his choice "is obviously attractive . . . has an excellent record in academic subjects, and . . . she has proven herself through a wide range of activities." We are pleased to present his choice—Miss Donna Perdue.

Except for the beating of hearts, a serene moment is shared by David Marham and Miss Donna Perdue.

Donna Lynn Perdue has been chosen "Miss North Star" for 1968 because of her total interest and activity in the world around her.

The Eight grade begins an organized year by electing representatives to guide throughout.

Sense of Belonging Replaces Insecurity

Locker combination, changing classes, and long lunch lines initiated eight graders to high school life. For most, Northside was much larger than the schools that they had previously attended.

Soon realizing that the crowds of people rushing through the halls were just other individuals like themselves, eighth graders grew accustomed to a new atmosphere. They too began to stroll down halls until the quarter-to-nine bell rang each morning and learned to search anxiously for library cards before study hall.

General science, math, English, physical education, and world geography were in order for most eighth graders. Some studied, some did not, but for all, the year progressed with many never-to-be-forgotten moments.

Y-Teens Enjoy Service Projects

The expression "Y-Teens are on the go" is verified by the past year's activities. In August, the officers attended a council at Camp Craig to discuss and plan for the coming year. October found Y-Teens helping at Play-Day, which was for underprivileged children, held at the Y.W.C.A. in November, the Annual World-Wide Y-Teen convention was held in Washington, D. C., and Northside was well represented. Every Tuesday night was Y-Teen night at the Central Y.W.C.A., and members were invited to come swim, talk, or study. At Christmas, the club celebrated the crowning of Sants Lucia with the Hanging of the Greens. Christmas cards for the soldiers in Viet Nam were collected.

The Y-Teen officers were Kathy Dalton, president; Becky Chittum, vice-president; Andi Cole, program chairman; ICC representative, Evelyn Bailey; Pat Fitzhugh, world fellowship chairman; Vicki Martin, treasurer; Judy Neely, secretary; Bonita Marshall, worship chairman.

North Winds Informs of All Activities

Many improvements have been made in the school newspaper, the North Winds. With some help from the Advanced Grammar and Composition class, more and better articles were produced. The staff used dummy sheets for the first time, and they studied some of the finer points of journalism. In the interests of the student body, editorials were printed dealing with topics that were of concern to the students. Activities of the students and faculty were presented in each issue of the paper.

Viking Discoverers is an organization dedicated to furthering the interest of the student body in science. Through various fundraising projects, the club was able to purchase books on science for donations to the library. The members of the Discoverers looked for fossils in Catawba in the spring of 1967 as one of their projects.

Languages Challenge Many Ninth-Graders

The second year at Northside brought with it a tremendous joy in no longer being lowest in class rank and also the challenge of more difficult courses. Ninth grade science broadened horizons and tested mental reasoning as freshmen were confronted with one semester of chemistry and one of physics. Many freshmen also encountered language courses and algebra. Freshman and junior varsity sports, club work, school publications, the most "in" fads, classwork, and hops filled the conversation of these students in the halls, in classrooms, and at the lunch table. As the year progressed the ninth graders became an integral part of Northside, participating actively for the first time.

F.H.A. Gives Tips for Better Living

The Future Homemakers of America is an organization for all Home Economics students. Annually the members have a fashion show in which the girls model self-designed, self-made clothes.

Junior Achievement is a non-profit organization sponsored by various corporations in the Roanoke Valley. J.A. is open to high school students in sophomore, junior, and senior classes who start a company, sell their products, and make money as their company flourishes. J.A. also has specialized service companies such as printing, photography, I.B.M. banking, and marketing.

A similar organization at Northside is the Decca Club. These students are enrolled in a new course called Distributive Education. Members of this club fulfill academic requirements during the morning and work during the afternoon. This enjoyable and beneficial experience will afford an opportunity of obtaining a lasting job.

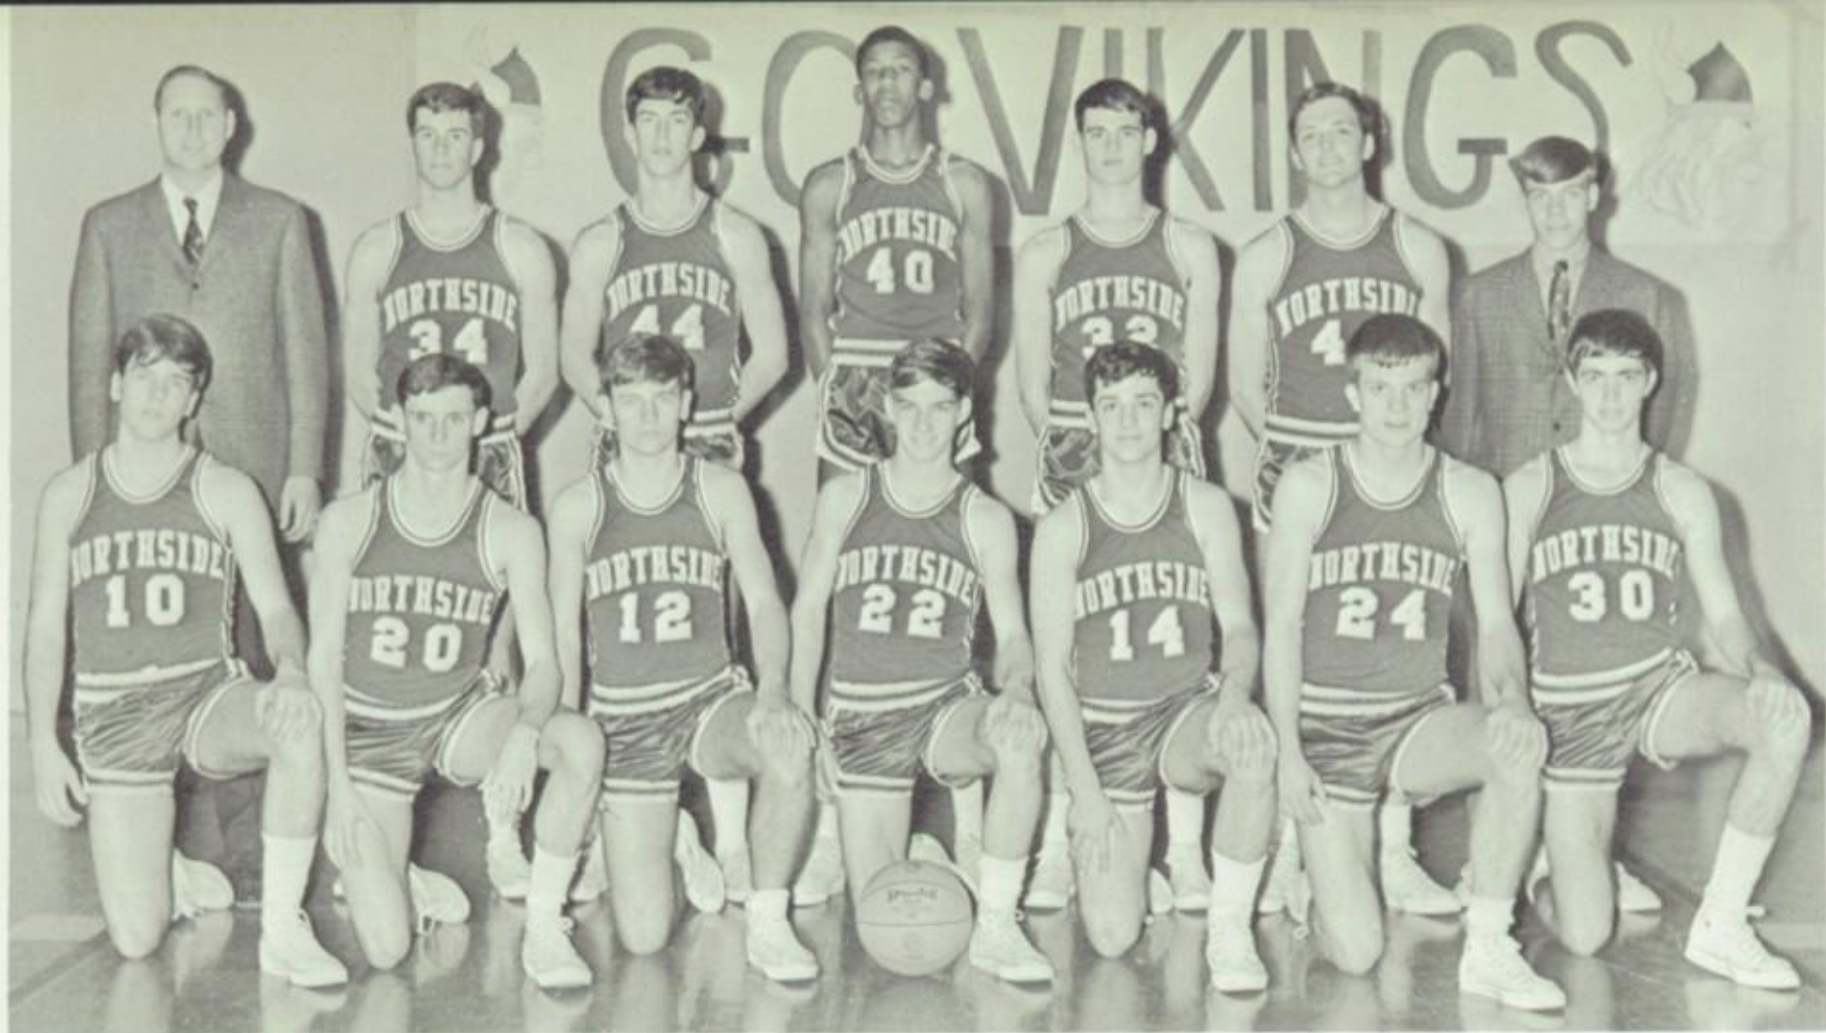

*And the schoolmistress that pass'd on her way to the school,
And the friendly boys that pass'd, and the quarrelsome boys,

And all the changes of city and country wherever he went.*

Christmas vacation provided time for trips, parties, fun, and frolic. The eight inch snowfall pleased many. Vacation ended with a New Year's Day full of football games and parades. Resolute Vikings began the year by making New Year's resolutions.

Students attended classes only one week before they took a veritable second holiday. Snow, snow, snow kept the county schools closed six straight days. Sleigh riding, ice skating, and roasting marshmallows over open fires left little time for thinking about missed school. Postponed wrestling matches, basketball games, and meetings disrupted schedules in weeks ahead. Reopening of school saw classes held Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Exams came the following week, and a three-day mid-term break was forfeited to the snow vacation.

Tommy Clayton vainly tries to keep the ball safe for Northside while Mike Henderson gives his aid.

Vikings' "Super Team" Is Great In 1968

Working hard to live up to the name made by last year's basketball team, our boys spent hours developing skills. This training paid off in rewards of a successful season.

Team spirit and cooperation won our games, and at season's end we entered the Blue Ridge District Tournament rated second. The height of Tommy Clayton, Bernard Harris, and Mike Henderson and the speed and agility of Gene Fielder, Wayne Gaabo, Terry Henson, and Billy Watson proved indispensable to the Viking attack. David Bousman, Robert Cannaday, Calvin Cronise, Fred Hutchins, and Gene Murphy added skill and support.

Junior Varsity basketball rivaled the varsity for excitement and close scores. Team members tested their skills against opponents at 6:30 p.m. before every varsity game.

The freshman team met their opposition in weekday games after school. Members ended the season with memories of exciting games and high hopes for next year.

Gene Murphy jumps high to block an important shot desperately needed by Glenvar to tie the score.

Our Jolly Green Giant Bernard Harris stands by to thrust those long arms in rescuing our ball.

"Way to go, Vikings! Another victory!" the spirited crowd roars with delight as a Viking "shoots the hoop."

Vikings Give Ole "Cinderella" A Whirl

"Watch out, William Byrd! Billy Watson's gonna get that ball through your heavy guarding to the Northside goal!"

Vikings stand ready to grab the rebounds as Mike Henderson shoots over his Glenvar defender's head.

Cheerleaders Say "We've Got Spirit"

Northside's cheerleaders are a vital part of our school. Besides lending a spirit of gaiety, head cheerleader Donna Perdue and her bouncy squad attempt to ease tensions before games. The girls practice once each week to develop perfect style. They have adopted singing as an extra attraction at our cheer rallies. Before each athletic event they sell tickets in the cafeteria to eager students. They lift team morale by decorating the locker room with paraphenalia that say, "Vikings, we love you!"

Participation in extra-curricular activities makes each cheerleader well-rounded. Our cheerleaders serve as a live example of our spirit everywhere they go. A second place award at cheerleading camp proves the outstanding ability of our Viking cheerleaders.

Sporty cheerleading jackets have finally arrived!

The Varsity cheerleaders, Linda Holland, Pat Cassada, Martha Brown, Bonnie Foster, Lyn Gordh, Donna Perdue, Janie Hoer, and Linda Keen, lead students in a new cheer at the opening Basketball Pep Rally.

Varsity cheerleaders show pep, spirit and perfect formation while performing at the 1967 Cheer Rally.

Tutoring Service Offered by Math Club

The National Honor Society undertook major new projects this year. A five-member committee rewrote the club's constitution. The new constitution was approved after the executive committee and the membership at large made slight revisions. Members worked at a coat check during wrestling and basketball seasons. The coat check proved to be an effective money-making project.

Miss McDavid and Mr. Brill sponsored the society. Mr. Brill, during his first year at NHS, displayed enthusiasm and encouraged members to buy and wear their club pins. He felt that this would promote the qualities of leadership, scholarship, character, and service.

"Variety" properly described the Math Club's programs and projects. After a football game in early fall this club sponsored a hop, and any member will assure all that this is an excellent way to make funds grow. At the banquet held December 13 at Bradford's the club voted to buy carts for the overhead projectors used by the Math Department. Later in the year programs included such things as a speech by Mr. J. Zimmer on binary computers.

Ronnie Hall, Math Club president, shows Alta Simon and Suzanne Painter how to work a hard problem.

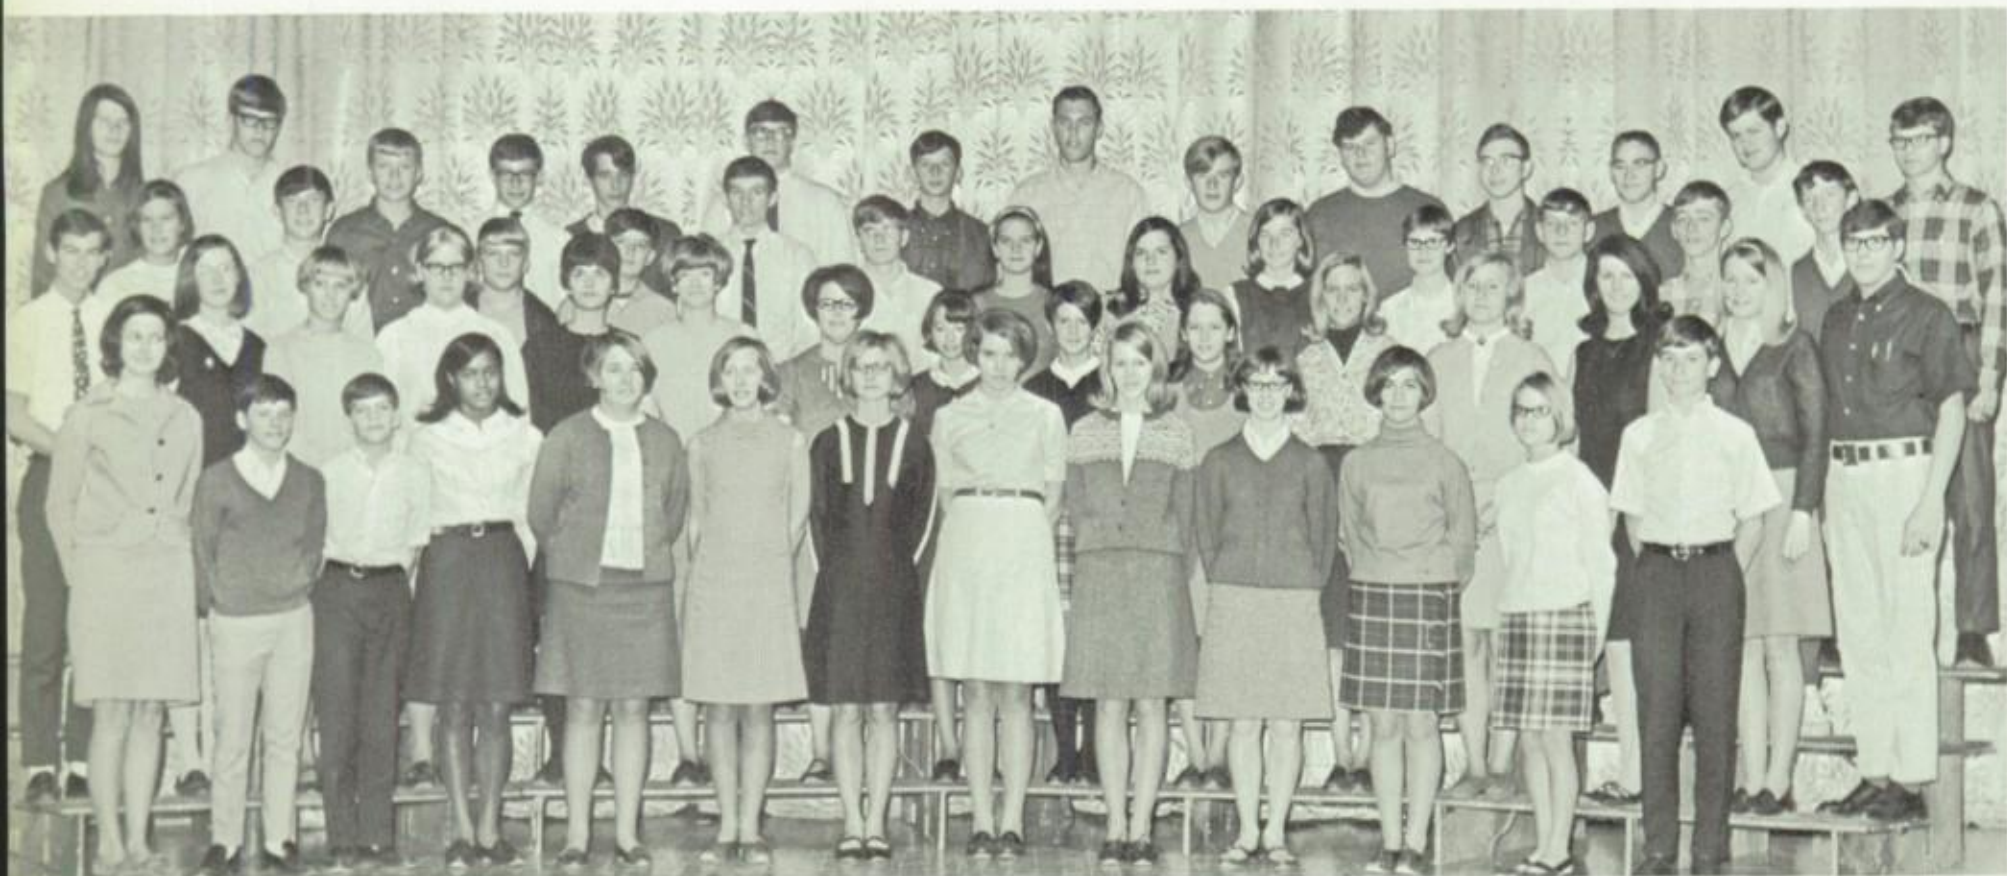

Kathy Kurbjun, Larry Wilson, Norma Palispis, and Carol Clarkson are increasing their vocabulary in the N. H. S. library.

French Club Bakes for Busy Teachers

Northside's two language clubs, each with more than fifty members this year, meet monthly to plan varied activities for their members.

Latin students and students who have formerly completed two or more years of Latin are eligible for membership in Solidatas Latina. The club held its banquet at the home of sophomore Suzanne Painter in early November. Members welcomed a blazing bonfire at this Roman-style barbeque. "Slaves" entertained "plebians" and "patricians." Proceeds from bake sales enabled the club to give teachers a luncheon in the spring.

Miss Myers, who teaches all four levels of French at Northside, sponsored Le Cercle Francais. She was pleased at the big turnouts for meetings and at the interest shown in club activities. Activities included a Thanksgiving bake sale, a hike to the top of Tinker Mountain, a Christmas party, Christmas caroling, films, and speakers.

Servicemen Receive Cards from Keyettes

The Keyettes continued to sponsor the clinic in the girls' locker room for girls who became sick during the day but could not go home.

Throughout the fall members helped at the Easter Seal Center on Williamson Road. They stuffed envelopes and glued address tabs on them.

At Christmas Keyettes encouraged NHS students to send cards to our men in Viet Nam by way of WROV radio.

Glenvar High School joined the Lone Star District of Keyette International this year. District meetings were held monthly at Northside, Andrew Lewis High School, or Glenvar High School. The district sent gifts to a young girl living in a mental institution.

Numerous Keyettes attended the International Convention held at the Shoreham Hotel in Washington, D. C. in the spring.

Programs at meetings included such things as a speech by our foreign exchange student Norma Palispis on her native land. At this meeting, which was held in combination with the Key Club, club members became better acquainted with our foreign student and with the differences between her country and ours.

The game is finally over and the crowd rushes to hand money to the Davis triplets at the Keyette hop.

Sophs' Homecoming Float Wins 1st Prize

Students find the routines at Northside commonplace by their sophomore year. In and out of class they stay busy. The sophomore's "Crush the Cavaliers" float wins first place in the 1967 Homecoming Parade. In biology class tenth graders feel squeamish when dissecting frogs and marvel at theories of evolution. Headaches come to many as they prove geometry theorems.

Caught in the middle, sophomores frown at eating with eighth graders yet feel ill at ease with upperclassmen. They are eager to advance to varsity sports and senior proms but fear the college boards and junior chemistry that loom in the future. The midway year, the year of question, holds spirited fun, thoughtful moments, and academic progress.

Christmas Cheers NHS with Dance and Play

Before the school year starts to drag, students are revived with a long, well-enjoyed Christmas vacation. Signs of Christmas begin to appear in early November; people become friendlier; classes become rowdier; signs telling of the annual Christmas dance are seen on every corner.

This year our band sponsored "Yuletide Dreams." "The Steps of Rhythm" beat out the Christmas cheer from eight to twelve. Santa Claus' surprise appearance highlighted the enchanting evening.

Earlier in the day, our Dramatics Department enacted "Geraldine and the White Robe" at the Christmas assembly. Following Geraldine's outbursts and the angels' attempts to reform her, the choir entertained students with merry songs. SCA president Walter Reinhardt and senior class president Allen Williamson then showered our foreign exchange student Norma Palispis with gifts from the student body as an expression of our appreciation to her.

Geraldine (Teresa Lynch) argues with her brother (Teeny Boitnott) in the drama play "Geraldine and The White Robe."

Couples entering Band Dance gayly gaze into darkness at the sparkling decorations.

Miss Martin checks flickering lights and adds the finishing touches to our fireproof Christmas tree.

Glen Dudley and Kathy Kurbjun share the cold while playing in that exciting, funny little white stuff.

Band members march off the field to the beat of the drum after performing at halftime.

The Conceret Band, under the direction of Mr. Shook, practices diligently for the Christmas Assembly.

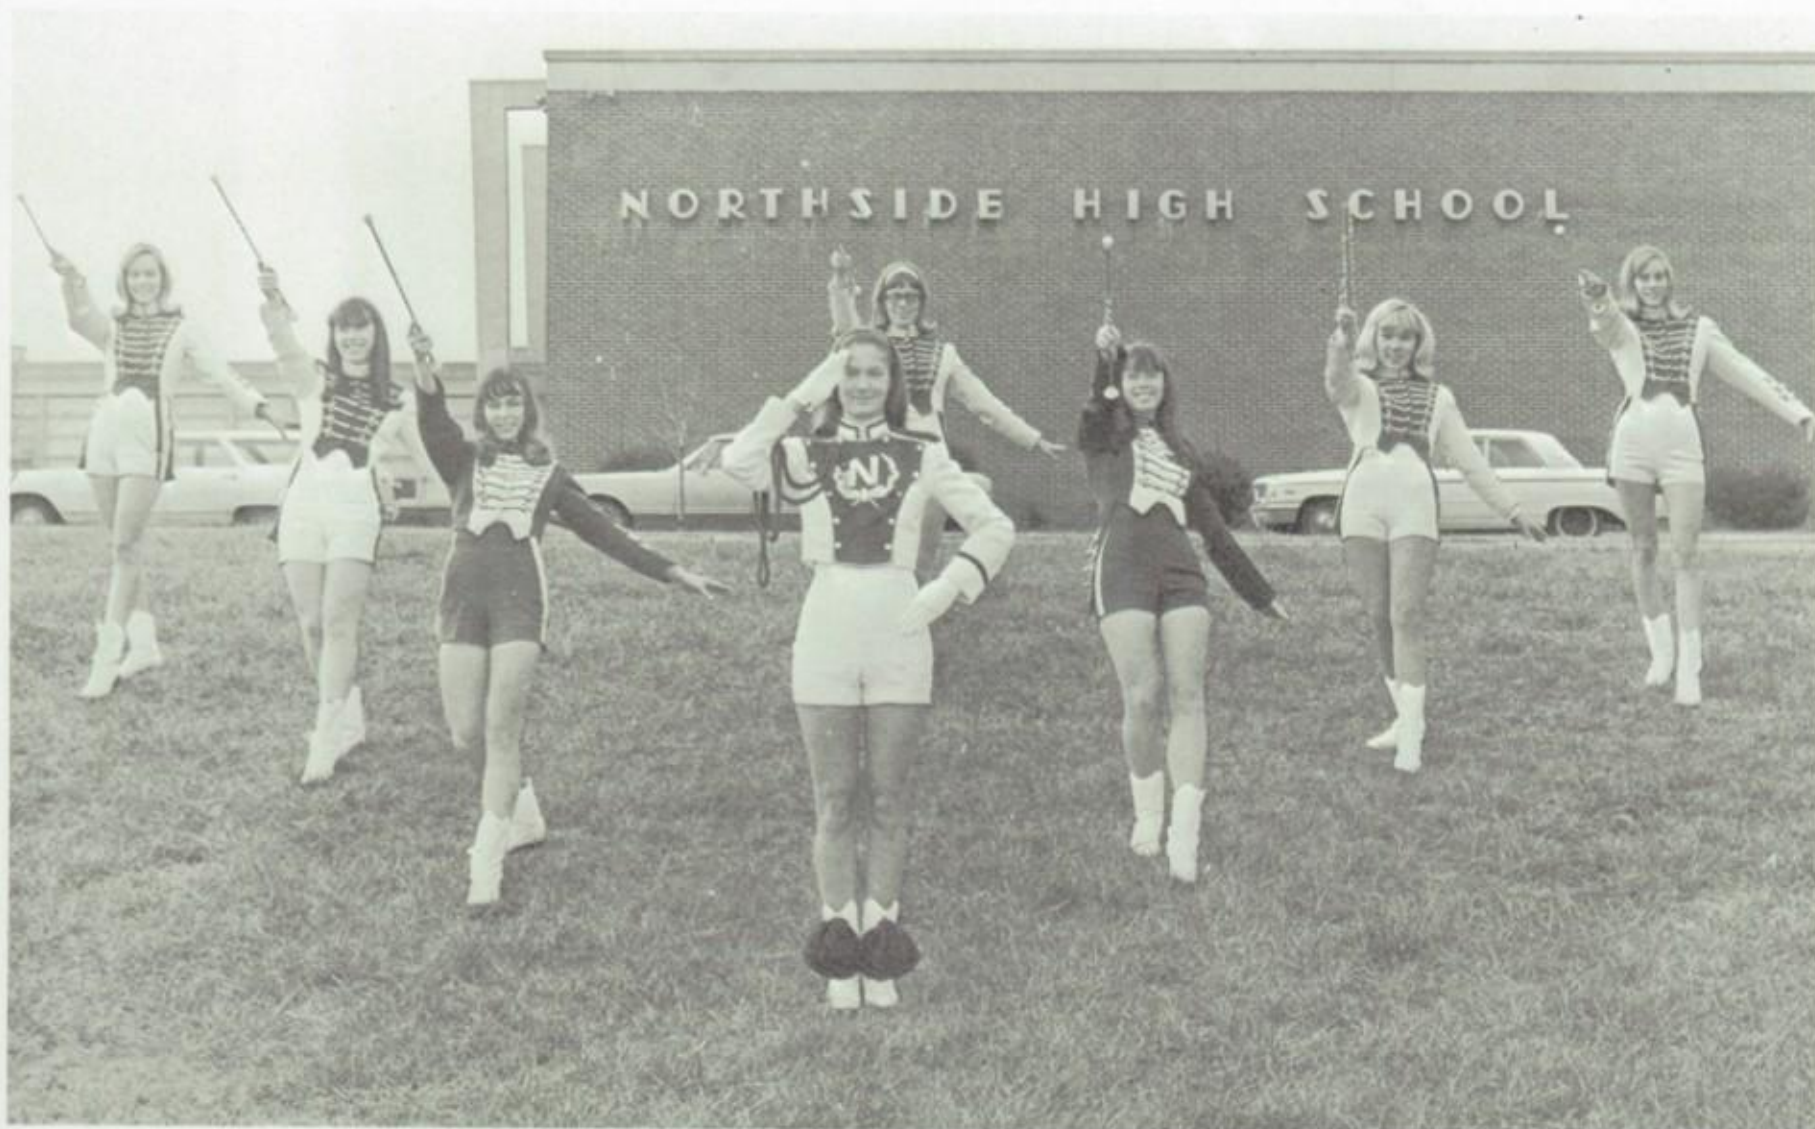

Parade Gives Band Frozen Fingers

The Marching Band traveled to the Bristol Band Festival in early October and returned with an "Excellent" rating. Under the guidance of a new director, Mr. John Shook, the band practiced daily during marching season and produced a different show for every football game.

The Christmas season held many opportunities for band activities. Cold noses and red cheeks typified the Viking band members as they played "The Christmas Song" in the Roanoke and Salem Christmas Parades. The band planned long and diligently for the Christmas dance, "Yuletide Dreams," which initiated the Christmas vacation.

Winter is finally here! exclaim Linda Kidd and Brenda Fahnestock as they build an idea snowman during a routine day at school.

Fall Means Hard Work and Back to School

Early last fall the senior class chose Carma Hale to represent N. H. S. in valley-wide Miss United Fund competition. The class voted in early November to send Cindy Henley as snow princess in the Roanoke Christmas Parade and Linda Kidd and Brenda Fahnestock as holly princesses to the Salem Christmas Parade.

The senior class chose the following delegates to represent Northside at Girls' State and Boys' State: Lyn Gordh, Donna Perdue, Brenda Fahnestock, Larry Stuckey, Allen Williamson, and Terry Henson. The alternates selected were Sue Aheron, Martha Brown, Carol Clarkson, Glenn Dudley, Mike Henderson, and Bill Watson. Girls' and Boys' State were held in June at Radford College and the College of William and Mary, respectively. Northside's representatives returned with practical knowledge about the functioning of Virginia state government.

Future Seniors Anticipate Graduation

Northside's newest full-fledged upperclassmen enjoyed many phases of student life. Their chemistry experiments emitted interesting odors from the lab. At class meetings juniors organized fund-raising and prom-planning committees. In early fall seniors playfully criticized their lack of plans. Eleventh graders assumed positions of leadership in many clubs and contributed to newspaper, yearbook, and literary magazine publications. Rushing from club meetings to football practice or homework, juniors still found time for class projects of peddling pot holders and baked goods. Avidly supporting all athletic events, the class proudly gained possession of the spirit stick by having the greatest percentage of attendance at the Cave Spring game.

Future Teachers Promotes Learning

Future Teachers of America are sponsored at Northside by Miss Gregory. The club held a spaghetti dinner before the VSDB wrestling match. Money made at this dinner was used for club activities later in the year. In the fall the members had a pot luck supper to which they invited our foreign exchange student, Norma Palispis. At this supper they learned much about Norma's native land, the Philippines. They also held election of their officers on that night. Debbie Cutright, president, and Miss Gregory called meetings when there was important business.

Cringing teeth and flexing muscles enable Coach Ken Shelton to mentally wrestle each Northside opponent.

The situation looked rather tense for the Viking wrestlers, but as usual they came through for Northside.

Another Win—Thank You Coach Shelton

Undefeated Viking wrestler Larry Stuckey goes for a pin to win the match in the regional tournament.

Practicing daily during the regular season and even more often before the Regional and State Tournaments, the Viking wrestlers once more soared to the heights. Their record now holds 41 consecutive victories, and they plan to add more next year.

The Roanoke Valley Invitational Tournament at Northside tested the skills of wrestlers from twelve high schools. Loyal fans saw our wrestlers carry off top honors with a score 10 points better than their nearest opponent. Mike Painter and Larry Stuckey placed first, Ricky Schilling second, Gary Davidson, Barry Francisco, Dicky Stuckey, and Mike Bailey third, and Larry Hamilton and Allen Journell fourth.

Six wrestlers, Mike Bailey, Barry Francisco, Mike Painter, Mark Reinhardt, Brad Smallwood, and Larry Stuckey, finished the regular season with unbeaten records.

A noisy pep assembly before the team left and a bus packed full of Viking fans showed the team we backed them as they entered the State Tournament.

Prospects for next year look good, since 11 on the first string team will return. Grap-pettes and all the student body hope for more successful matches and tournament victories.

The Viking wrestlers have their own way of showing congratulations to each other for a successful match.

With Coach Ken Shelton as sponsor and senior Debbie Oyler as president the Grapplingettes were bound to spread spirit. They competed with other clubs by entering a peppy banner in the banner contest sponsored by the Pep Club.

The Grapplingettes sponsored Northside's first Wrestling Homecoming on December 16. They sent invitations to all the wrestlers of past years, and throughout the match against Orange County they provided recognition of these wrestlers.

Hard work by the girls in Grapplingettes assured the success of the Regional Wrestling Tournament at Northside February 9, 10. The girls also made certain that buses were available to transport students to Facquier High School in Warrenton, Virginia, for the state tournament February 16, 17 to wish the Vikings well in defending their state championship title.

Because the Sadie Hawkins Day Dance that they sponsored in spring 1967 was a tremendous success, the Grapplingettes again planned this dance for spring 1968. Girls of all classes were urged to ask their dates early in order to avoid the rush.

The Hard work of Northside's grapplers through the '66-'67 season paid off with state championship title.

*The early lilacs became part of this child,
And grass and white and red morning-glories, and white and red clover, and the song of the phoebe-bird,
And the Third-month lambs and the sow's pink-faint litter, and the mare's foal and the cow's calf.*

Spring doesn't come like a flash of lightning or a clap of thunder. Gently infiltrating winter ways with its fresh new outlook and renewed strength, spring is probably one of the most welcomed seasons of the year, despite continued lawn mowing.

Fields of flowers burst into bloom as do the halls of Northside when bright happy colors replace winter plaids, and sweaters are abandoned for shirt-sleeves.

Cheerful sunshine, warmer weather, and April Showers make it easier to smile and stay in a good mood. Homework is often forgotten for congregating at Lendy's or the tennis courts. Convertible tops convert, early suntans appear, and weekends at the beach beckon when the sky is blue and the sun is high.

G.A.A. Members Hope to Become Physically Fit.

Northside's Girls' Athletic Association encouraged girls to keep physically fit by continued participation in sports. Club sponsors are Miss Brammer and Mrs. Clemmons.

Interested eighth graders attended a coke party in early fall. Throughout the rest of the year intramural sports events took place on Saturdays. These ranged from ring tennis to volleyball to basketball.

Girls received points for all intramural sports, all summer sports activities, hikes, bowling, and bicycle-riding in which they took part outside the club. The club's Intramural Manager kept a record of each member's points, and at the spring banquet certificates were awarded for 250 points, letters for 500, and stars for 1000.

The GAA also sponsored the girls' basketball team. Coached by two of the club's sponsors, this team met several other city-county teams in competition. In spring many girls joined the softball team or took part in track and field events.

Andrea Kelley shoots for two points as the Vikettes come close to winning another one.

Thespians Suffer Sweaty Costumes

Stressing the fundamentals of dramatics, the Polyfacets Drama Club is the organization designed for students enrolled in drama courses. Members of the Polyfacets work in cooperation with the National Thespians on makeup, props, and technical aspects of play production throughout the year, as well as present one-act plays.

The National Thespians enables members to cultivate dramatic abilities with others who have some talent in that field. The Thespians operate on the point system, newly revised this year. To gain membership students of dramatics must attain a certain number of points through participation in plays and related activities. This year the club decided that half of the points necessary must be earned in backstage work, and that the number of miscellaneous points should be cut in half.

Track Keeps Boys Light on Their Feet

Green blurs whizzed by and thundered off down a coal-black track. Wind-blown spectators watched field team members broad jump or throw the discus. The Viking track season was in full swing!

Northside's trackmen began their practice when the first signs of spring arrived. Track and field competition attracted boys from all five grades. Hours of endless toil and diligent practice rewarded these boys with victory.

All team members enjoyed the development of individual skills, but some attained the added reward of establishing new school records. The season's end found our hard-working Northside trackmen placing second in the Blue Ridge District, a well-deserved honor.

F.B.L.A. Learn Skills of Business

The Projection Club, now more organized and more efficient, than before, is a great benefit to Northside's faculty. By keeping track of the visual aids and supplying them to the classrooms, the Projection Club has eliminated much confusion. Also in charge of special effects and lighting at assemblies and extracurricular activities, the club operates from the projection room.

The SKALD staff this year has added to the regular publication a shorter version known as "Skald Scribbles." The work for the "Scribbles" is chosen from donations by the students as well as from the work by regular members of the staff. The regular SKALD magazine comes out in the spring.

The F. B. L. A. has been active in the Radford Region this year with entries in Public Speaking, scrap books, bulletin boards, and other exhibits. The officers chosen for this are Karen Painter, President; Teresa Bowman, Vice-President; Nancy Holland, Secretary; and Steve Roberts, Treasurer.

Projection Club member, Steve Mimimch helps with lighting and sound effects during Keyette assembly.

The "Key to Christmas" reminds the citizens of Roanoke of the true spirit of the season.

Key Club Spreads Christmas Message

The Key Club sent money to pay for food and clothing for Wu Tu Liu, an eight-year-old girl in Taiwan. The club sent her gifts at Christmas and received a Christmas card from her.

The members attended a banquet at the Oasis Restaurant in January. The program included a film and the initiation of new members.

Members helped at the Mountain View Elementary Bazaar last fall. They became amateur salesmen for the club's annual money-making project of selling peanut brittle.

Programs later in the year included speeches on various vocations and a movie, "The Young Americans."

Northside's chapter of Key Club International sent two delegates to the district convention in Baltimore, Maryland in April and two to the international convention in Montreal, Canada, in July.

Northside Golf Team Swings Into Action

Our tennis team, organized for the first time in the spring of 1967 and coached by Mr. Howell, practiced frequently at Loch Haven Country Club. Team members Glen Dudley, Walter Viohl, Dick Oliver, Kyle Fitzgerald, and Larry Stuckey enjoyed battling with skillful players from several area high schools. Their 4-3 record brought a successful beginning to tennis at Northside.

Coached by Mr. Fallin, the golf team teed off to an exciting season once more. Senior David Kidd took top honors on the team. Playing at local country clubs, the members took up their irons daily to maintain proficiency in drives and putting. Those returning for '68 include Danny Camper, Mike Morris, Danny Jarrett, and Steve Williamson.

While stuck in the sand pit, Danny Baldwin skillfully swings out with some coaching from David Kidd.

Dreams Come True for Senior Class

The class of 1968 struggled through their junior year to present the prom, "Days of Wine and Roses." During that year they originated the "Mr. Cool Contest" and awarded a prize to the most beautiful entry. Tommy Anderson took the five dollar prize and with it the title, "Mr. Cool." Profits from the musical "South Pacific" gave a tremendous boost to the class treasury.

The senior year brought hopefully awaited senior rings, pins, key chains, and pendants. The administration thoughtfully added the senior privilege of leaving three minutes early for lunch. Collegebound seniors enrolled in advance math and English courses. Business students were offered an office practice course at the Vocational Center. English 12 included studies of "The Canterbury Tales", Shakespearean dramas, and structural linguistics. Seniors rejoiced at the completion of their last high school examinations.

Terry Henson, "Mr. Football", grins when congratulated by Coach Shelton.

Seniors! Seniors!

Ranking number one on the student totem pole, seniors enjoyed the benefits of experience. Theirs is the joy of screaming "Seniors!" at every pep rally. Theirs is the joy also of saying, "I passed all tough courses that are giving you underclassmen such a tough time!"

The class of 1968 has come to realize that as seniors they have reached a point of no return. Five years ago when as eighth graders they entered the halls of Northside the day of graduation now so near seemed an eternity away.

For some, college acceptances came months ago; for some, the future holds only indefinite plans. During rehearsal for graduation and capping assemblies, however, all gain a new prospective on how fleet time is and how final their graduation.

While Seniors dance to the music of the Aqualads, Mr. and Mrs. Yates hop to their thirsty cries.

Senior Banquet is Given by Juniors

"The Days of Wine and Roses" left many memories with those who attended the 1967 Junior-Senior Prom. Red roses, candlelight, and music by the Aqualads provided the essential atmosphere for a delightful evening. Money-making projects and committee work by the junior class were well rewarded by the success of the prom. As each couple entered over a gently-sloping bridge, girls were presented long stem red roses.

At baccalaureate the Reverend J. C. Noble once more turned the ears of graduating seniors toward serious topics. In a crowded gymnasium, seniors wearing caps and gowns listened to challenges of tomorrow. Exams finished, their high school careers near a close and graduation only days away, the class became inevitably aware of what lay ahead.

Brenda Glass, Lyn Gordh, and Donna Perdue watch hungrily as Eddie Tucker generously fills his plate.

Seniors Anticipate The Coming Years

Seniors look forward to their graduation night for five years—first as eighth graders looking at seniors far ahead of them, later as juniors watching many close friends graduate, finally as seniors themselves, living through their final year at Northside. Climaxing the final year of preparation for the world of work and higher education, graduation night symbolizes an accomplishment, a milestone in the lives of these people. As students describe it, graduation is a time of happiness and of sadness, a beginning and an end. Speeches by classmates and administrative officials ring in the ears of all present, and the minds of seniors are crammed full of relief at the completion of a lengthy task, ambitions to meet future challenges, and fears of failure. Yet, amid this conglomeration of ideas there emerges hope and a faint tingle of excitement as the future is seriously considered. The graduated seniors rise reluctantly and go forth to meet their worlds.

As the Class of '67 goes toward graduation new doors of the future open.

"Pomp and Circumstances" plays as the Class of '67 marches into a new world full of hopes and fears.

Carol Clarkson and Rose Marie Phillips distribute programs at the '67 graduation.

Affection that will not be gainsay'd, the sense of what is real, the thought if after all it should prove unreal,

*The doubts of day-time and the doubts of night-time, the curious whether and how,
Whether that which appears so is so, or is it all flashes and specks?*

Doubts of day and doubts of night vanish when we show affection for trivial items in our lives. Affection, depth of expression, joy in sharing experiences with our classmates present a vibrant reality, an underlying spirit. The flashes and specks of our school are students frequenting halls and haunting classrooms. Soiled loafers and dusty-white saddle oxfords shuffling down halls deceive an onlooker. The observant notice the flashing smile, the bouncy hello which reflect student spirit. Seemingly inconsequential events combine to build the unique personality of our student body. An all season' view of Northside reveals a flash of shared experiences.

Annual Staff Makes Memories Immortal

More than a memory book, the North Star clearly reflects every aspect of life at Northside. By giving a complete view of activities held throughout the year, the yearbook functions in the public relations of our school. Selling ads and subscriptions, drawing layouts, cropping pictures, and writing copy and captions, annual staff members participate in more than an extracurricular activity. They continually strive to meet deadlines, thus moving always closer to a completed account of our year. The editors, advisor, and entire staff work in accord to produce the book. Staff members fulfill an obligation to make the yearbook a complete record of every facet of student life. When this record arrives from Delmar Publishing Company in May, staff members inevitably feel pride and experience many moments remembering the rewarding hours of work they did on the book.

When things are in an uproar, you can depend on Donna Fitzgerald to locate important material.

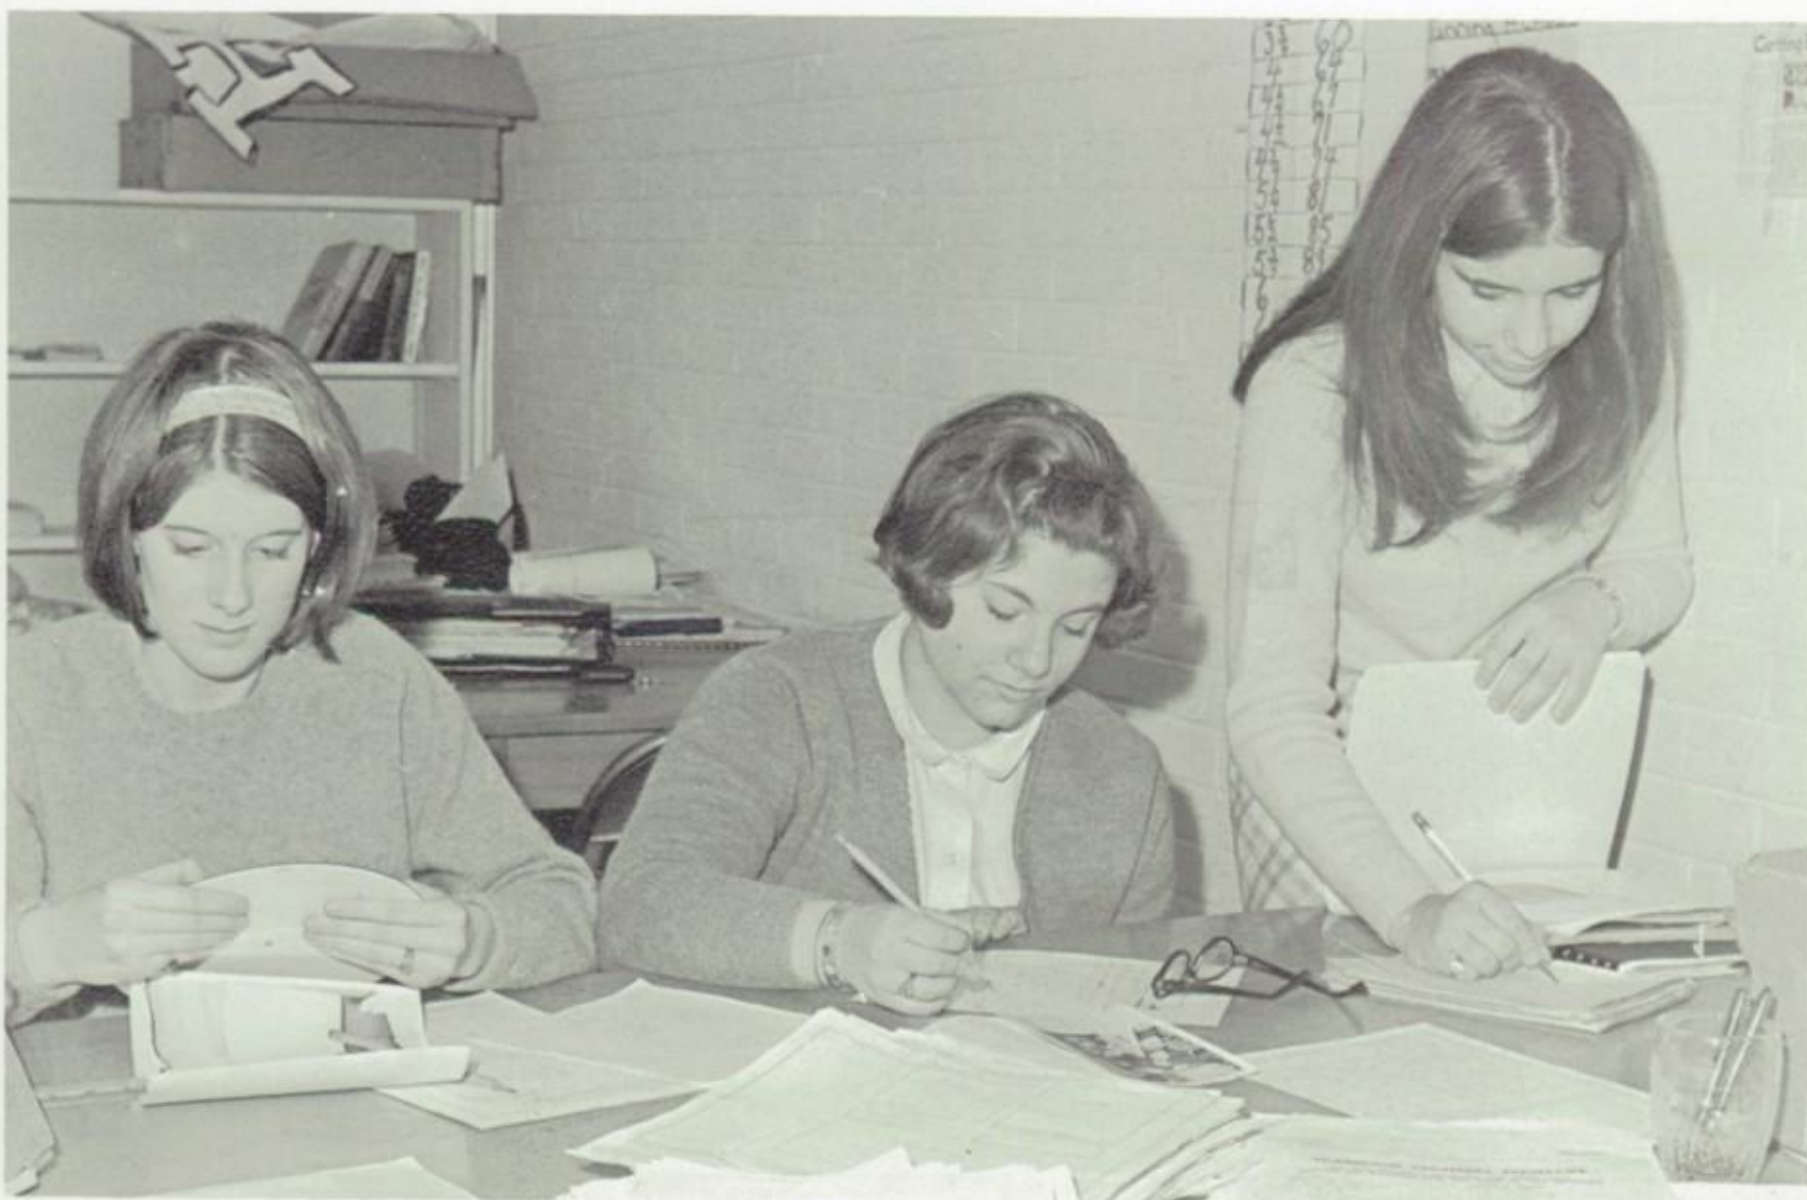

Constantly searching for just the right words to fit just the right pictures, Donna Fitzgerald, Janie Hoer, Darlene Jones, Marsha Clarkson, Jane Vannoy, and Jodie Landis, compose our North Star Annual.

Cindy Henley, Editor; Carol Clarkson, Copy Editor; and Pat Ball, Business Manager, pitch in to help Mr. Carter, our adviser, type a letter to Delmar.

Paula Mason, Marty Johnson, and Rosean Smith work on copy and captioning pictures for the final deadline.

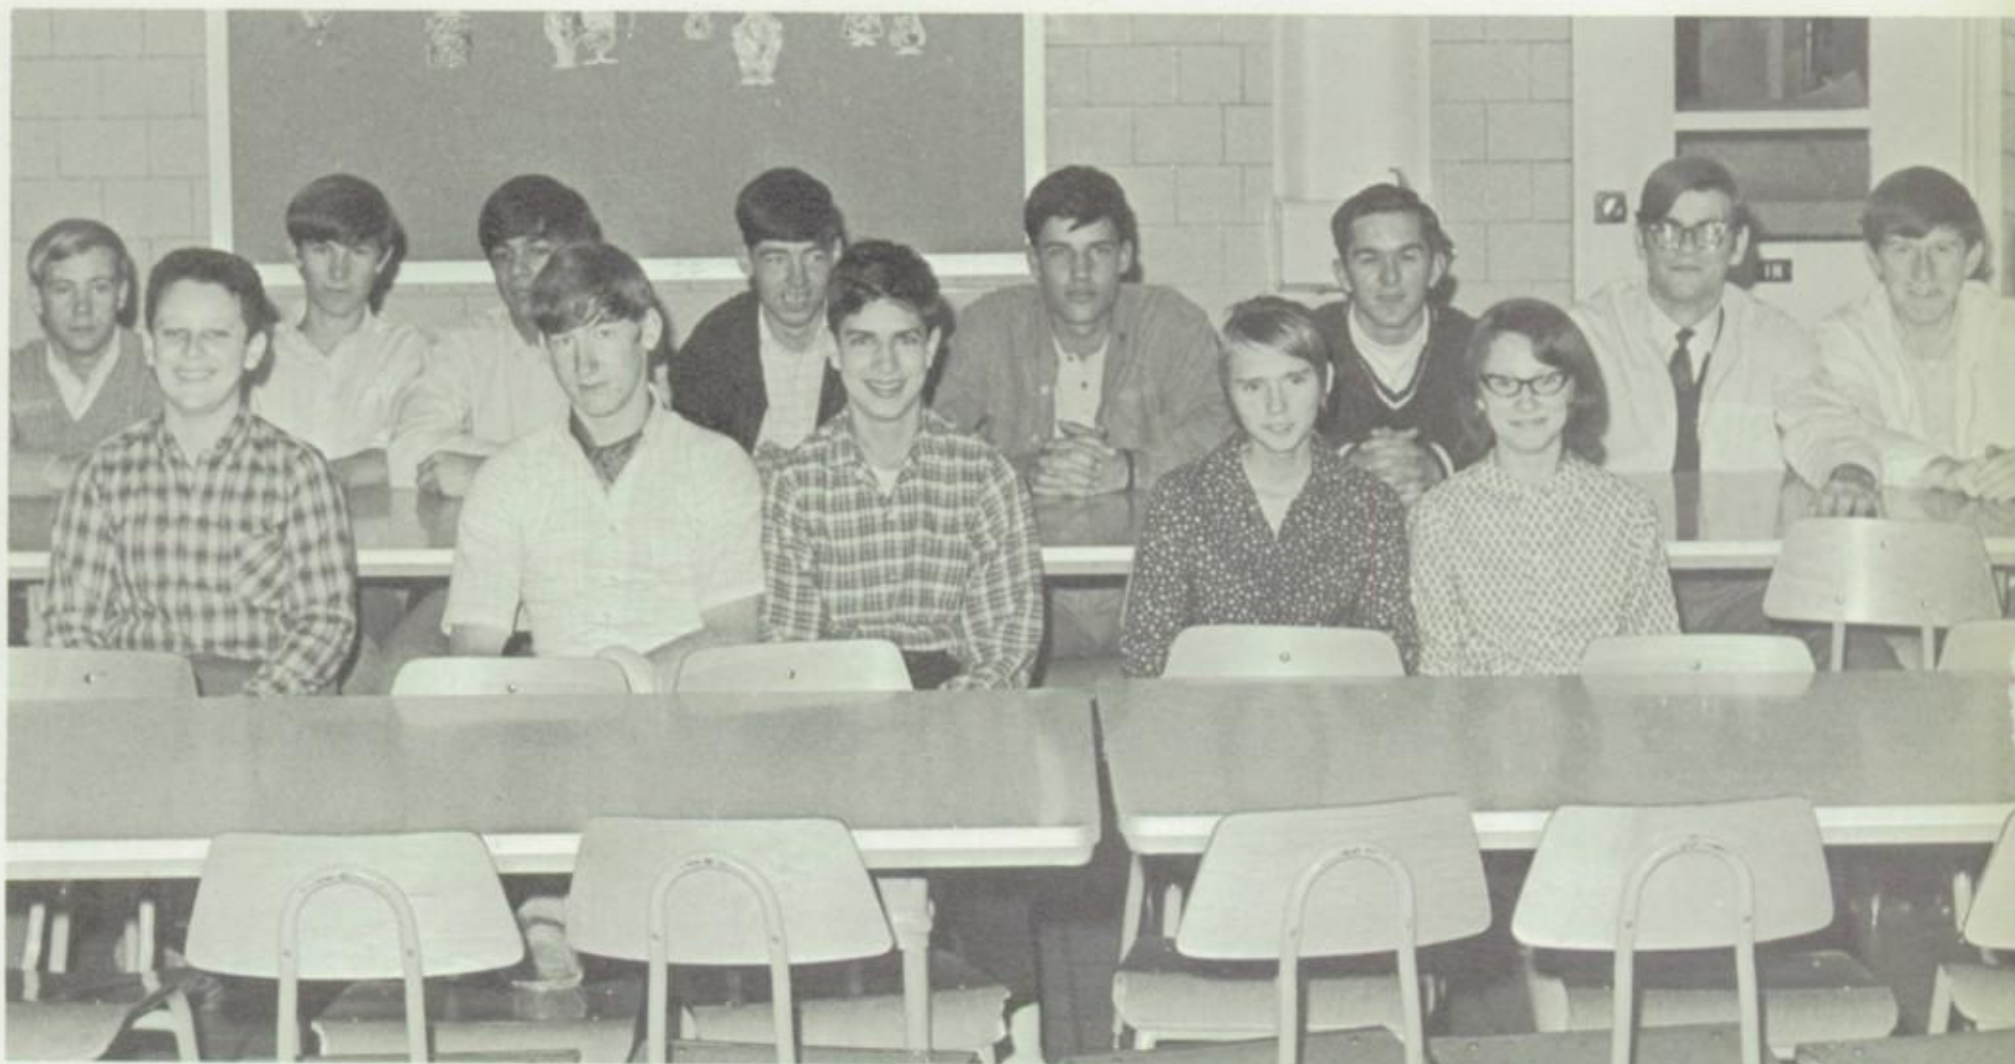

Oversized rolling pins and larger than usual measuring cups are a must for 1300 student's hot lunches.

Students wait as workers inspect the meat and buns which are wrapped in cloth to assure their warmth.

Service Groups Aid Cafeteria Workers

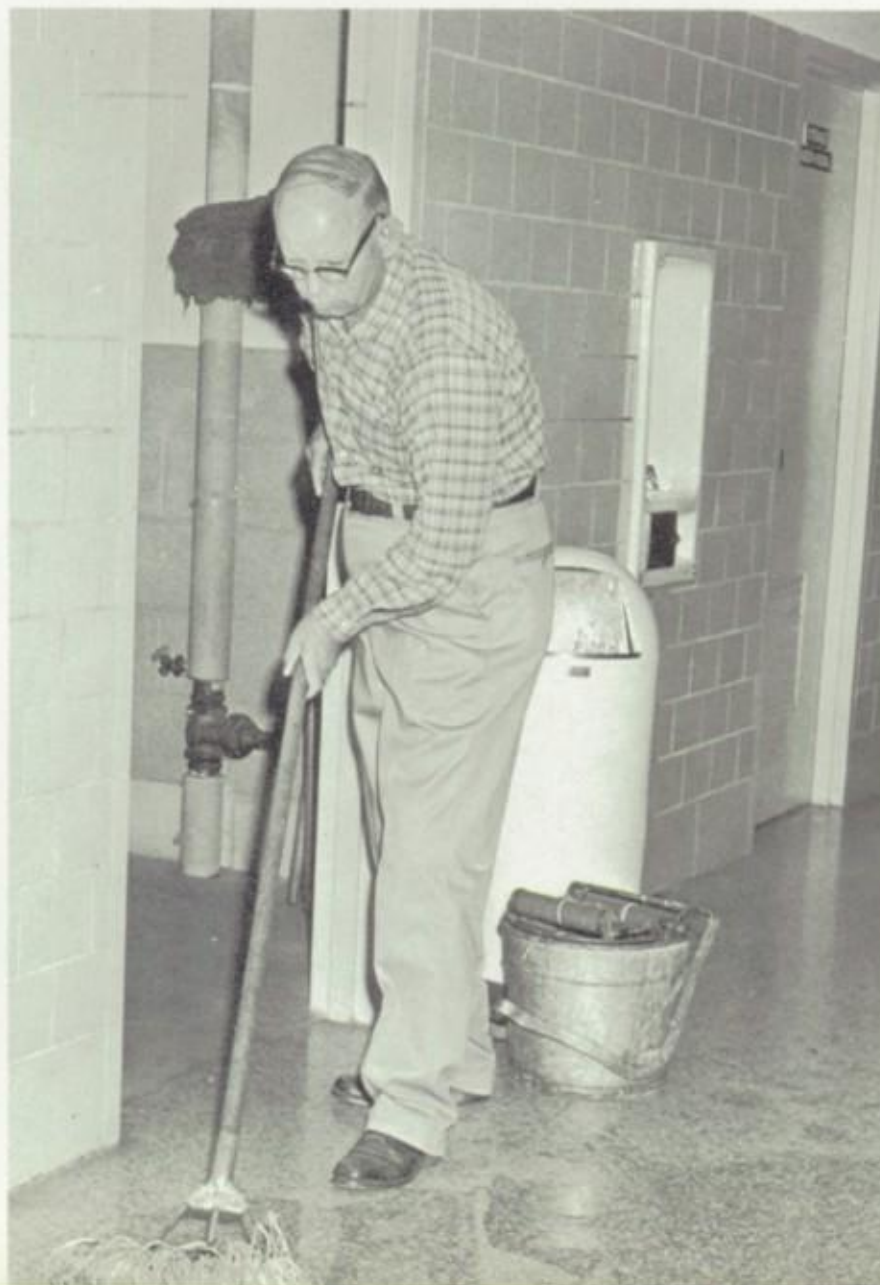

Vital to the maintenance of any large high school are the cafeteria workers, bus drivers, and students who work in the office and cafeteria. NHS is no exception.

Most of our 1300 students are transported to and from school daily by some 25 bus drivers. The long snakelike line of yellow buses at the close of every school day is seen on the hottest day of June and on the cloudy, rainy days of December.

Equally important are the women who prepare hot lunches each day in the school cafeteria. Besides their task of providing food for the students of NHS, these women fix meals to be carried to Masons Cove Elementary school.

Several girls and boys spend an hour each day in the cafeteria to earn their free lunch. Cafeteria maintenance depends greatly on these students. Numerous girls devote one or two study halls per day working in the office. Errands to be run are plenty.

Our custodian, C. R. McKeel, diligently mops up C-Hall floor dirt and scuff marks during after school hours.

Choir Heartily Sings Do-Re-Me-Fa-So-La

Northside's reorganized choir, under the superb direction of Miss Mildred Johnson, has almost doubled its activity.

Early in the fall members sang during half-time activities at the Shrine Bowl with other choirs from Roanoke area high schools. They entertained harried Christmas shoppers at the Crossroads Mall December 19 and sang a medley of songs from around the world at our Christmas assembly. Also during the Christmas season, they built a float and entered it in the Roanoke and Salem parades.

February 20 was the date for All-State choir. Not only was this the first time this had been held at Northside, but it was also the first time our choir had participated. Miss Johnson selected eight people from our choir to represent us in the All-State. The highlight of this occasion was a concert by all members of the All-State choir.

For this spring, the choir planned two concerts which were presented to the elementary schools and our student body.

OFFICERS: Pres. O. Blanney, Inter. S. Blankenshop, Sec. M. Brown Music and Robe Lib. A. Simmon, C. Striclin.

Northside's choir had a Spanish Christmas and used "Calypso Noel" for their theme in Christmas parade.

*There was a child went forth each day,
And the first object he look'd upon that object he became,
And these became part of that child who went forth every day, and who now goes, and will always go forth every day.*

So we also moved through Northside's halls, absorbing our ideals and setting our goals. Every day the surprise and routine, the joys and sadnesses, English and Chemistry, have all become a part of us—to be put forth in coming years that we may still go forth and in our turn become a part of another child somewhere.

Young people leaving the security of Northside face the reality of life with an open mind.

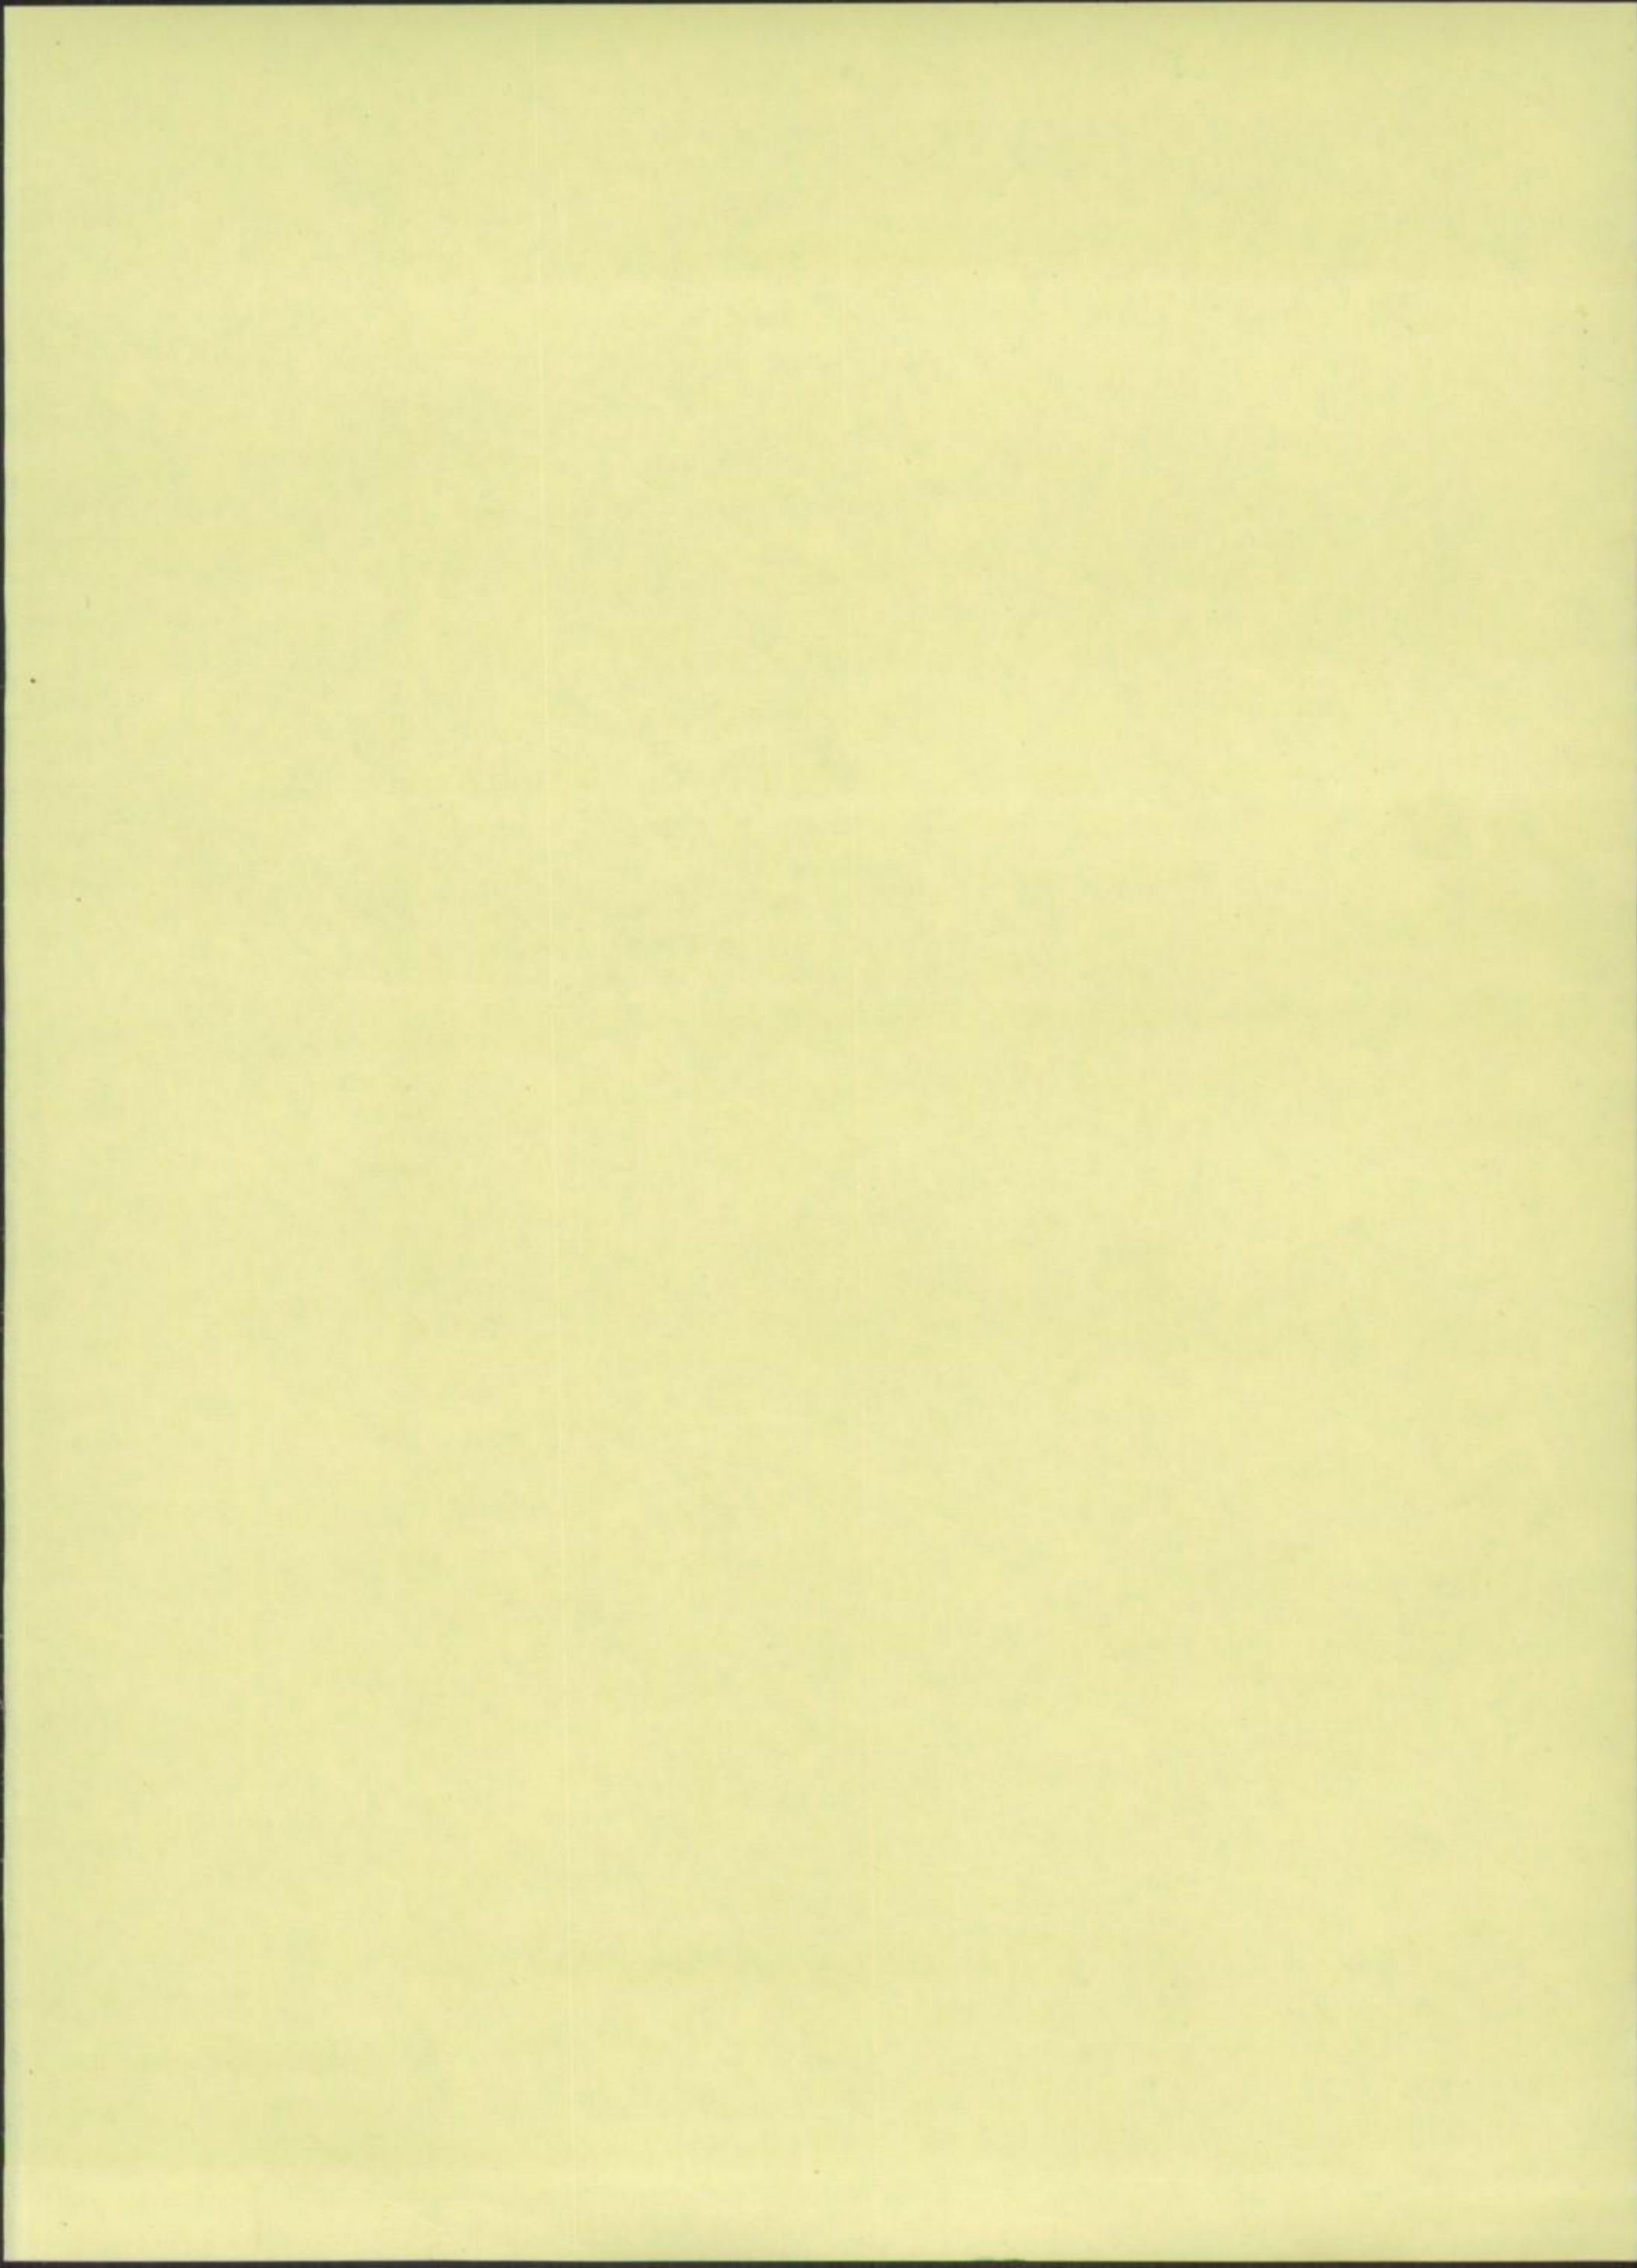

Stewart,
It's been great over here
these few years. (H.A.)
Have a nice summer
and take it easy.
Good luck always.

Bunka Hite

Best wishes
to a real great guy.
Don't get drunk anymore and stay out of trouble this summer, have fun! Darrell Holt
